SUPPLEMENT.

CORA RAPP,

Formerly of This City, Takes the Witness Stand to Testify Against the Man Who Shot Her.

The trial against Nurse Searvant, who shot and nearly murdered Mrs. Hawley Chapman, nee Cora Rapp, of this city, came up at Brooklyn, N. Y., yesterday. Cora Rapp spent her earlier days in Fort Wayne and was raised almost from babyhood by Mrs. Loutitt, who still lives here. She was considered one of the brightest pupils of the Hanna school. The trial will be one of interest. The following dispatch was received by THE SENTINEL:

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The case for the people in the trial of Nurse Searvant for shooting Mrs. Hawley Chapman was up before Judge Moore in the court of sessions in Brooklyn today.

What excuse Searvant has to offer for shooting a defenseless woman will be brought forward tomorrow.

Searvant's attorney, T. G. McMahon, was certainly not selected for brilliancy or legal acumen. He wasted everybody's time today until the judge brought him up with a round turn by fining him $100.

The audience drew a long breath, and ceased looking at Searvant when Mrs. Cora Chapman and Hawley Chapman came in from the waiting room.

They sat side by side, she pale, but with a complexion that flushed brilliantly at the questions of MaMahon, many of which were of such a nature as to preclude their publication. Mrs. Chapman had on a French gray dress, with cut steel trimmings, and a thick stuff cape coat with a hood of creamy yellow.

Hawley Chapman looked apoplectic in color, rather heavy in the face and plump. His hair was smoothly parted in the middle. He wore a black cutaway coat and light trousers—black and white. His heavy coat lay across his knee. He looked up when his name was mentioned, but it was easy to see that there was something lacking. His eyes had a vacuous look.

As for Searvant, he was easy and comfortable in appearance. His face was all of a color, lips and all. His eyes were full, and his blonde mustache was waxed till it stood out like a pair of yellow horns. When Mr. Ridgway called him a contemptible coward and a presumptuous scoundrel he never flinched. Mr. Ridgway said this in his brief opening address, which he concluded by expressing his regret that the punishment for assault with intent to kill was so small. It is imprisonment in the state prison from five to ten years.

Mrs. Chapman was called to the stand, and then every body looked at the woman who still carries a bullet near her heart; who lingered so long near death, and yet today looks well and hearty. She told her story simply, without much urging. Her name was Mrs. Cora Chapman, her husband's name was Hawley Chapman; they had been married four years. November 23 last they were living at No. 33 St. Mark avenue. Herbert Searvant had been a nurse for Mr. Chapman since the August previous.

"Your husband has a small estate in Brooklyn?" asked Mr. Ridgway.

That was to show what the district attorney had declared in his opening speech—that Searvant had tried to put Mrs. Chapman out of the way so as to get hold of the property himself.

"Yes," said Mrs. Chapman, "and Searvant always went with us when we collected the money." Then she told the story of the shooting.

"It was about 9:30 the morning of November 23," she said. "I had not yet got up. The little dog which slept at the foot of my bed awakened me by scratching at the door to be let out. I opened the door and let him out and then fell into a doze again, leaving the door open. I was awakened by feeling an arm around my neck and found Searvant there. He said: 'Don't be mean Cora.' I said: 'Leave the room, oh you coward.' He put his hand down to his pistol pocket and said: 'I'll show you whether I'm a coward or not.' Then he left the room. He was gone just a little while, I don't know whether he went down stairs or not. But he came in and sat on the edge of the bed, and, as quick as a flash, pointed the revolver and shot me. I put up my right hand and caught one bullet there. Then he shot me again and the bullet struck me in the left breast."

"Near the heart?"

"Near the heart. It has not yet been taken out. Then he went away. I turned the messenger call and went down stairs to open the front door for the messenger, and then went to a back room on the second floor and laid down on a couch there. The ambulance came and took me to the Seney hospital. I was there seven weeks."

GUILTY OF ASSAULT.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 19.—The jury in the case of Searvant, the nurse charged with shooting Mrs. Cora Chapman, have just brought in a verdict of assault in the first degree. He was remanded for sentence.

A SEALER'S STORY.

Captured by Russians and Compelled to Work or Starve—Crazed With Hunger He Kills a Comrade.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash. 20.—Charles Wilson, mate of the sealing schooner, George R. White, tells a tale of suffering in Siberia. For the past three years this schooner had been sealing off the coast of Alaska and Siberia. On a trip in the spring of 1890 the schooner got into Russian waters and barely escaped arrest. Another American sealer at the time was captured by the Russian authorities, says Wilson, and the crew were compelled to work in the coal mines. Captain Alex McLean, of the schooner Eddie D. Webster, of San Francisco, was arrested, but it is not known whether these men belonged to his or another vessel. Two of the crew of Americans, names unknown, incurred the displeasure of the officials because of a disposition to shirk work. They were chained together with iron bands around their waists and a large iron ball at the end of the chain. One man was very large and the other below the medium height. They were kept underground, and had to dig a certain amount of coal each day or no food would be sent down to them. The supply got short, and the big man ate his companion's food for five days. The small man became frantic with hunger and murdered the greedy prisoner while he slept. He called to the guard at the mouth of the shaft and told him he had killed his companion and asked to be loosened from the dead man. The guard refused. In desperation the small man took a coal shovel and cut the dead man in two and loosened the band from his waist. Neither was seen again. The supposition is that the murderer was killed by a guard or starved to death. The story is told by a prisoner who worked in the mines where the tragedy occurred. Many arrests are reported of poaching sealers by the Russian authorities and many prisoners never leave the mines alive.

WERE DETERMINED TO WED.

Trials of Two Lovers From the Classic Banks of the Wabash.

WABASH, Ind., Jan. 20.—Last Saturday Henry Baughman, of the south side, procured a license to wed Lera Faidley, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Jacob Faidley, but her parent, who opposed the match, hearing of the prospective marriage, followed up the young couple and notified the justices to take up the license if it was presented and refuse to perform the ceremony. An hour later the young couple cal d on Justice William Russell, who captured the official paper and returned it to the county clerk, and no wise discouraged by the obstacles which the stern parent placed in their way, Baughman and Miss Faidley went to a small town just over the Michigan line, where they were united, returning to receive the customary blessing last night.

LOVED HIS NIECE.

Strange Infatuation of Relatives Which May End in Marriage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—There is much gossip in Catholic circles here over the application of Sidney Boyle, a wealthy young merchant living at San Rapheal, for papal dispensation to marry his niece. Boyle and his elder brother quarreled several years ago, but recently made up the trouble and divided a large inheritance from their father, who was a wholesale importer of woolens. Recently the brother died and Sidney was made executor. A part of the estate was left to his widow and her daughter. Sidney saw much of the latter, who is a girl of twenty years, and the result was they fell in love. Being good Catholics their only hope of getting the marriage sanctioned was to apply to the pope, which they have just done.

Governor Boies.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 20.—The inauguration of Horace Boies as Governor of Iowa took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the hall of the house of representatives in the presence of a large and distinguished assemblage. The inauguration ceremonies were extremely simple and devoid of display.

A MURDEROUS PLOT.

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 20.—The suspicion that there was an organized conspiracy to kill Judge Botkin, Pitzer, an attorney, Sheriff Dunn and two or three other persons in south Kansas, has been fully substantiated. There are three men, residing in adjoining counties, who have furnished the information and whose forecasts have always been correct. While they are not ready at this time to reveal the full enormity of this criminal organization, they have detailed enough of its operations to show that three separate oaths bind the members to obey the order of the inner councils, even though these orders involve the taking of life. The members swear to obey these orders without question, even though they may be commanded to take the life of their dearest relative. In the counties of Haskell, Grant, Stevens and Seward there are sixty-five members, all of whose names have been furnished Judge Botkin. These men are taken only from the alliance, and even then the utmost care is taken in the selection of proper material. The meetings are held at Springfield and Woodsdale where three degrees are taken. The first degree binds the members to stand by each other at the risk of life if necessary. The applicant is pledged under the penalty of having his residence burned, and his stock and crops destroyed, never to reveal ought that may come to his knowledge concerning the actions of any member. When taking the second degree he swears to join any member or members in the protection of their rights and in resenting any personal affront or injury. If he fails in responding when called upon or reveals any contemplated action on the part of a fellow member, his life may be declared forfeited by the action of the council to which he belongs. In taking the final degree he places himself at the disposal of the inner council in life and death. He swears to faithfully execute any orders issued by the council. He is given to understand that the secret order of justice was directed against the enemies of one or all of the organization.

TRIAL POSTPONED.

The Defense in the Quay Libel Suit Secure More Time.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—Judges Kennedy and Porter occupied the bench at the opening of the criminal court this morning. Senator Quay's criminal libel suit against A. J. Barr and James Mills, of the Pittsburg Post, was to be called. The court room was thonged. Senator Quay and his witnesses did not make their appearance at the court house, remaining at their hotel. Messrs. Barr and Mills were present in court as courageous and serene as could be desired. It was about 10 o'clock when District Attorney Burleigh called the name of A. J. Barr. The defendant came forward and was sworn. Through his counsel, Mr. Ferguson, he submitted an affidavit to the effect that Charles N. Volune, an important witness to the trial of the defense, was absent. Attorney Ferguson then addressed the court, asking for a postponement for a brief period, so that the absent witness could be found. Besides this, the senior counsel for the defense, Mr. Watson, was yesterday cited to attend an argument in the supreme court on Friday. Counsel for the prosecution opposed the motion for a postponment. After a brief consultation the judges gave their counsel until 1 o'clock this afternoon to agree upon a day and date for the trial to proceed.

A RICE TRUST.

Northern Parties in the South to Form One.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 20.—E. V. Douglass, and others representing parties in New York and Chicago, are in the city for the purpose of purchasing the rice mills, some fourteen in number, and forming a rice trust. They have had conferences with the millers and it is generally believed that the majority are willing to sell, the only point at issue being the price. The deal involves about one million dollars.

THE ELLIOTT CASE.

The Ohio Murderer Will Not Get a New Trial.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 20.—The supreme court yesterday overruled the motion for a new trial for W. J. Elliott, the murderer now serving a life sentence in the Ohio state prison. Elliott is the editor who last March killed, with his brother's help, A. C. Osborn and W. L. Hughes on the streets of Columbus. This removes his last hope of escaping the terrible punishment, and he was unable to conceal the depressing effect the news of the decision had upon him. Two of the five judges, Minshall and Bradbury, dissented for the reason that the defendant was not tried by an impartial jury within the meaning of the constitution of the state and that the court erred in not allowing the motion of the defendant for a change of venue.

CHASE'S CLEAR FIELD.

Griffin Will Probably Take the Second Place—Michener Here.

(Indianapolis News.)

The early and vigorous canvass Governor Chase is making for a nomination by his party has practically scared everybody else out of the gubernatorial race. The leading politicians of the party are about ready to concede the nomination to Governor Chase. Between the politicians and the church people the governor is making a strong impression, and he isn't losing any time in getting his fences all in shape. He has left a rubber stamp with "Lieutenant-Governor" Otto Pfafflin, which is used in signing the commissions of notaries public while the governor is out extending his already very wide acquaintance over the state. Sunday the governor was at Michigan City; yesterday he was at South Bend, and today he is at Lebanon. Unless he strikes a new lead that needs working he will be home tomorrow. The friends of Governor Chase are bringing a good deal of influence to bear to have ex-Secretary of State Chas. F. Griffin get out of the race for governor and run for lieutenant governor. It won't be surprising if the movement is successful. This done Governor Chase will have a clear field.

Outside of the governorship the only person who has announced himself as a candidate for place on the republican state ticket is F. J. Sholz, of Evansville, who is out for state treasurer. Mr. Sholz is a German, prominent in business circles in Evansville, and his friends believe he will make a strong race.

Ex-Attorney General Michener is expected to arrive in Indianapolis this evening to do some work for Harrison. Telegrams have been coming here for him since yesterday, but he has not yet shown himself. Both the Seventh and Fifth district conventions will be held here Thursday. Both will elect Harrison members of the committee.

HOOSIER NEWS.

Happenings Gathered from Different Parts of the State.

The A. O. U. W. has a membership of 1,000 in Evansville.

Mrs. Archia A. Allen, of Montgomery county, is dead. She was aged eighty-seven, and a first cousin of Mrs. Martha Washington.

Peter Lemmon, a pioneer of New Albany, is dead of the grip. He was aged seventy-seven. His wife died of the same disease twenty days ago.

August Hozine, of Lagro township, Wabash county, died of the grip. His son died the following day, and his daughter, Mrs. Charles Martske, the same week.

Henry Baughman and Miss Lena Faidley, of Wabash, prevented from marrying at home by the opposition of parents, fled to Michigan and were legally united.

Taylor Bird, of Howard county, went to Decatur county to attend the burial of his father-in-law, S. R. Hamilton. While at Greensburg he was seized by the grip and died.

George W. Hartzell, the first chief of the South Bend fire department, is dead. He was born in 1819, and it is a coincidence that his birth, marriage and death occurred on Sunday.

During the meeting of the Elkhart county central committee Senator Hubbell introduced a resolution complaining of the treatment of Elkhart county by the administration. Hon. John E. Thompson supported the resolution in a bitter speech, but the Harrison sentiment predominated and Mr. Hubbell was finally persuaded to withdraw the resolution.

Micajah Hancock, aged 104, living with his youngest son, S. A. Hancock, near Monon, is dead of the grip. He was a grandson of John Hancock, one of the signers of the declaration of Independence. The deceased was born in Delaware, January 9, 1788, and he served in the war of 1812, and was in Lewiston when that city was bombarded. In 1818 he settled in Ohio, and in 1844 he removed to Indiana. His grandchildren number 120. Until within a few months his physical condition was wonderfully well preserved.

IS HE CHARLIE ROSS?

A Tramp Who Passes the Night at the Police Station Claims to be the Long Lost Philadelphia Boy.

"Can I get a place here to sleep tonight?" was the question put by a tramp, who entered the police station about 10 o'clock last night, to Chief Wilkinson who was sitting at his desk chatting pleasantly with THE SENTINEL reporter about the news events of the day.

"Well, that depends on circumstances," answered the captain. "If you have no other place to go and are without money we can let you sleep here. Who are you?"

IS THIS CHARLIE ROSS?

"My name, I guess," answered the man, "is John Raymond. I am trying to get to Philadelphia. I left the Pacific slope about two months ago, and having run out of money, I am now attempting to beat my way. I was put off a train here tonight, and being cold and hungry, came down onto the streets of your city to get something to eat and find a place of shelter for the night. I was told to come here by a man who gave me something to eat. He said you would allow me to sleep in the station over night. Please, sir, if you will let me do so, I will leave in the morning and not trouble you any more."

"Well, I think we can fix you," said the captain, and leaning over to THE SENTINEL reporter he whispered, "Here's a chance for a tramp article. Why don't you try to get his history?"

The newspaper man did not need a second hint. He immediately began to question the tramp about his past history. The fellow evaded the inquiries at first but finally told the story of his life, as far as he professed to know it, and it may be that the tramp who passed last night in our police station is none other than the long-lost, long-looked-for Charley Ross, who a score of years ago so mysteriously disappeared from his home in Philadelphia.

Many of the readers of THE SENTINEL will remember the stealing of little Charley Ross from his parents, the excitement it caused all over the country, and how for months and years the father and his friends searched for the stolen child, tracking his abductors in many cities, but never able to secure their son again.

For months the newspapers teemed with columns about Charley Ross, and his name was a household word everywhere, uttered by more lips and written by more reporters' pencils than was that of Tascott, the Chicago murderer. Like Tascott, Charley Ross was first found in one part of the country and then in another, and, like Tascott, each story proved to be false, and today the disappearance of Charley Ross is as much a mystery as ever, unless it should happen that THE SENTINEL reporter has stumbled onto the lost boy in the person of the tramp whom he met last night. "I believe," said he, when pressed with the inquiry as to whether John Raymond was his real name, "that I am the identical Charlie Ross who was stolen from his parents in Philadelphia a score of years ago."

This remark made the reporter quicken his wits. Here was news, sure—a sensation in fact—and while pressing the tramp for the story of his life, he scanned his features and appearance closely. He was not a bad looking man—about five feet eight or nine inches high, dark complexion, dark brown hair, black eyes, dark mustache and a beard of several days' growth. He looked to be about twenty-five years old and wore clothing much the worse for wear.

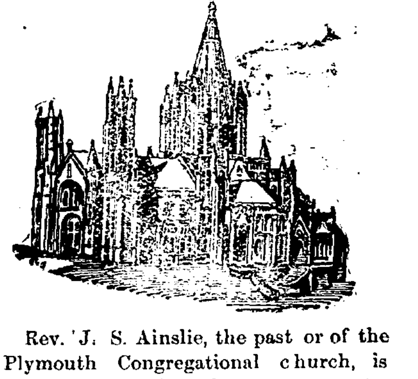
"My earliest indistinct recollections are of a great city," he said, "Then I remember of taking a long ride on the cars, of finding myself in another big city again, and of being compelled to beg on the streets by a rough man who claimed to be my father and who passed under the name of Mose Raymond. I was with him for several years at Nashville, Charleston, New Orleans and several other southern cities. He was brutal to me and one day I ran away from him and have never seen him since. I have worked at many things, but tramp life seemed to be my nature and I drifted from one city to another and finally found myself on board a ship, as a sailor, sailing for Brazil. I entered the army there and was in the revolution that drove Dom Pedro from the country, fighting on the side of the exiled emperor. I then commenced sailor life again and six months ago left my ship at San Francisco.

"In a saloon in that city one night I heard some men talking about the long lost Charlie Ross, and from their conversation I gathered the story of his abduction. The name 'Charlie Ross,' although I had never remembered of ever having heard it before, seemed familiar, and was like a boyhood dream. Their story revived recollections of my early life, and at last the conviction settled itself on my mind that I was the lost boy for whom the father searched so long. This thought became so strong that I determined to go to Philadelphia, and about two months ago I left San Francisco. I had but little money, and so I have been beating my way as best I could. This is my story, and you can do as you please about publishing it in your paper, for I shall be on my tramp again toward Philadelphia tomorrow."

This was the tramp's story. How much of truth or falsehood there is in it we leave our readers to judge. He is probably but one of the great army of lazy tramps who are going through the country living off the earnings of others and uses this story to get aid and sympathy. He has gone east, however, and will probably now work the police captains and the newspaper reporters of the Ohio towns on this Charlie Ross sensation.

PUSHING PLANS.

The New Church Which the Congregationalists' Purpose Building.



Rev. J. S. Ainslie, the past or of the Plymouth Congregational church, is vigorously pushing the arrangements for a new church. There will be meeting in the near future to decide about the plans for the building, as the ground will be broken preparatory to its erection in the spring. The building will be erected on the lot at the corner of West Jefferson and Harrison streets and will be one of the handsomest church edifices in the city. It will be of the latest style of architecture and it is hoped to have it ready for occupancy before next winter.

SLICK SWINDLERS.

A Fort Wayne Woman Works a Scheme on Pleasant Lake Ladies.

A new scheme was worked on several of the ladies of Pleasant Lake, Ind., a short time since. A handsome, well dressed lady, says an Angola Herald correspondence from that place, dropped off the train and proceeded to call on the ladies in the interest, as she said, of a large factory located in Fort Wayne, which did a large business in hair dressing. Outside of this she had many customers who sent to her to have their hair matched with switches and hair goods, and if the ladies would let her take their hair she would compare it with the samples and if she would not have it made up, and if she did she would bring the switch, the lady paying her $2.50 for making, and as they were sold at prices ranging from $10 to $14, which she would send by express the next Monday, when the switches were to be sent her by return express. It is needless for me to say they have their switches and paid a good big price for the making and were forced into having the hair made up that they have no use for, and some eight or ten ladies made the acquaintance of as smooth a liar as ever struck the town.

There is a small tract of land on the banks of Silver creek, in Clark county, called "The Loop," for which there are several contestants, and to which the government lays claim. Nearly twenty years ago, after the death of "Black Hawk Stewart," Val Kelly pre-empted the ground, and he is resisting oustment by force of arms.

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON.

RELIGION IN BUSINESS AND SOCIETY.

Whatsoever You Do, Let It Be to the Glory of God—There Is No Work Too Small or Too Great for the Spirit of Christianity.

Tabernacle Talks.

Dr. Talmage's text was taken from I. Corinthians x. 31: "Whether, therefore, ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

When the apostle in his text sets forth the idea that so common an action as the taking of food and drink is to be conducted to the glory of God, he proclaims the importance of religion in the ordinary affairs of our life. In all ages of the world there has been a tendency to set apart certain days, places and occasions for worship, and to think those were the chief realms in which religion was to act. Now, holy days and places have their importance. They give opportunity for especial performance of Christian duty, and for regailing of the religious appetite, but they cannot take the place of continuous exercise of faith and prayer. In other words, a man cannot be so much of a Christian on Sunday that he can afford to be a worldling all the rest of the week. If a steamer puts out for Southampton and goes one day in that direction and the other six days in other directions, how long before the steamer will get to Southampton? It will never get there.

And though a man may seem to be voyaging heavenward during the holy Sabbath day, if during the following six days of the week he is going toward the world, and toward the flesh, and toward the devil, he will never ride up into the peaceful harbor of Heaven. You cannot eat so much at the Sabbath banquet that you can afford religion abstinence the other six days. Heroism and princely behavior on great occasions are no apology for lack of right demeanor in circumstances insignificant and inconspicuous. The genuine Christian life is not spasmodic; does not go by fits and starts. It toils on through heat and cold up steep mountains and along dangerous declivities, its eye on the everlasting hills crowned with the castles of the blessed.

I propose this morning to plead for a religion for to-day.

In the first place, we want to bring the religion of Christ into our conversation. When a dam breaks, and two or three villages are overwhelmed, or an earthquake in South Africa swallows a whole city, then people begin to talk about the uncertainty of life, and they imagine that they are engaged in positively religious conversation. No. You may talk about these things and have no grace of God at all in your heart. We ought every day to be talking religion. If there is anything glad about it, anything beautiful about it, anything important about it, we ought to be continuously discussing it. I have noticed that men, just in proportion as their Christian experience is shallow, talk about funerals and graveyards and tombstones and deathbeds. The real, genuine Christian man talks chiefly about this life and the great eternity beyond, and not so much about the insignificant pass between these two residences. And yet how few circles there are where the religion of Jesus Christ is welcome.

Go into a circle even of Christian people, where they are full of joy and hilarity, and talk about Christ or Heaven and everything is immediately silenced. As on a summer day, when the forests are full of life, chatter and chirrup and carol—a mighty chorus of bird harmony, every tree branch an orchestra—if a hawk appear in the sky every voice stops and the forests are still; just so I have seen a lively religious circle silenced on the appearance of anything like religious conversation. No one had anything to say, save, perhaps, some old patriarch in the corner of the room, who really thinks that something ought to be said under the circumstances, so he puts one foot over the other and heaves a long sigh, and says, "Oh, yes; that's so, that's so!"

My friends, the religion of Jesus Christ is something to talk about with a glad heart. It is brighter than the waters; it is more cheerful than the sunshine. Do not go around groaning about your religion when you ought to be singing it or talking it in cheerful tones of voice. How often it is that we find men whose lives are utterly inconsistent, who attempt to talk religion, and always make a failure of it! My friends, we must live religion, or we cannot talk it. If a man is cranky and cross and uncongenial and hard in his dealings, and then begins to talk about Chirst and Heaven, everybody is repelled by it.

Yet I have heard such men say, in whining tones, "We are miserable sinners," "The Lord bless you," "The Lord have mercy on you," their conversation interlarded with such expressions, which mean nothing but canting, and canting is the worst form of hypocrisy. If we have really felt the religion of Christ in our hearts, let us talk it, and talk it with illuminated countenance, remembering that when two Christian people talk God gives especial attention and writes down what they say. Malachi iii, 16, "Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another; and the Lord harkened and heard it, and a book of rememberance was written."

Again I remark, we must bring the religion of Christ into our employments. "Oh," you say, "that is very well if a man handle large sums of money, or if he have an extensive traffic, but in my thread and needle store, in my trimming establishment, in the humble work in life that I am called to, the sphere is too small for the action of such grand, heavenly principles." Who told you so? Do you know that God watches the faded leaf on the brook's surface as certainly as He does the path of a blazing sun? And the moss that creeps up the side of the rock makes as much impression upon God's mind as the waving tops of Oregon pine and Lebanon cedar; and the alder, crackling under the cow's hoof, sounds as loud in God's ear as the snap of a world's conflagration.

When you have anything to do in life, however humble it may seem to be, God is always there to help you to do it. If your work is that of a fisherman, then God will help you, as He helped Simon when he dragged Gennesaret. If your work is drawing water, then He will help you, as when He talked at the well curb to the Samaritan woman. If you are engaged in the custom house, He will lead you, as He led Matthew sitting at the receipt of customs. A religion that is not good in one place is not worth anything in another place. The man who has only a day's wages in his pocket as certainly needs the guidance of religion as he who rattles the keys of a bank and could abscond with a hundred thousand hard dollars.

There are those prominent in the churches who seem to be on public occasions very devout, who do not put the principles of Christ's religion into practice. They are the most inexorable of creditors. They are the most grasping of dealers. They are known as sharpers on the street. They fleece every sheep they can catch. A country merchant comes in to buy spring or fall goods and he gets into the store of one of these professed Christian men who really have no grace in their hearts, and he is completely swindled. He is so overcome that he cannot get out of town during the week. He stays in town over Sunday, goes into some church to get Christian consolation, when what is his amazement to find that the very man who hands him the poor box in the church is the one who relieved him of his money! But never mind, the deacon has his black coat on now. He looks solemn and goes home talking about "the blessed sermon."

If the wheat in the churches should be put into a hopper, the first turn of the crank would make the chaff fly, I tell you. Some of these men are great sticklers for Gospel preaching. They say: "You stand there in bands and surplice and gown and preach—preach like an angel, and we will stand out here and attend to business. Don't get business and religion in the same bucket. You attend to your matters and we will attend to ours." They do not know that God sees every cheat they have practiced in the last six years; that He can look through the iron wall of their fireproof safe; that He has counted every dishonest dollar they have in their pocket, and that a day of judgment will come. These inconsistent Christian men will sit on the Sabbath night in the house of God singing at the close of the service, "Rock of Ages, cleft for me," and then when the benediction is pronounced shut the pew door and say as they go out, "Goodby, religion, I'll be back next Sunday."

I think that the Church of God and the Sabbath are only an armory where we are to get weapons. When war comes, if a man wants to fight for his country he does not go to Troy or Springfield to do the battling, but he goes there for swords and muskets. I look upon the Church of Christ and the Sabbath day as only the place and time where and when we are to get armed for Christian conflict; but the battlefield is on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday "St. Martin's" and "Lenox" and "Old Hundred" do not amount to anything unless they sing all the week. A sermon is useless unless we can take it with us behind the plow and the counter. The Sabbath day is worthless if it last only twenty-four hours.

There are many Christians who say: "We are willing to serve God, but we do not want to do it in these spheres about which we are talking; and it seems so insipid and monotonous. If we had some great occasion, if we had lived in the time of Luther, if we had been Paul's traveling companion, if we could serve God on a great scale, we would do it, but we can't in this everyday life." I admit that a great deal of the romance and knight errantry of life have disappeared before the advance of this practical age. The ancient temples of Rouen have been changed into storehouses and smithies. The residences of poets and princes have been turned into brokers' shops. The classic mansion of Ashland has been cut up into walking sticks. The groves where the poets said the gods dwelt have been carted out for firewood. The muses that we used to read about have disappeared before the emigrant's ax and the trapper's gun, and that man who is waiting for a life bewitched of wonders will never find it.

There is, however, a field for endurance and great achievement, but it is in everyday life. There are Alps to scale, there are Hellesponts to swim, there are fires to brave; but they are all around us now. This is the hardest kind of martyrdom to bear. It took grace to lead Latimer and Ridley through the fire triumphantly when their armed enemies and their friends were looking on; but it requires more grace now to bring men through persecution, when nobody is looking on. I could show you in this city a woman who has had rheumatism for twenty years, who has endured more suffering and exhausted more grace than would have made twenty martyrs pass triumphantly through the fire. If you are not faithful in an insignificant position in life, you would not be faithful in a grand mission. If you cannot stand the bite of a midge, how could you endure the breath of a basilisk?

Do not think that any work God gives you to do in the world is on too small a scale for you to do. The whole universe is not ashamed to take care of one little flower. I say: "What are you doing down here in the grass, you poor little flower? Are you not afraid nights? You will be neglected, you will die of thirst, you will not be fed. Poor little flower!" "No," says a star, "I'll watch over it to-night." "No," says a cloud, "I'll give it drink." "No," says the sun, "I'll warm it in my bosom." Then I see the pulleys going, and the clouds are drawing water, and I say, "What are you doing there, O clouds?" And they reply, "We are giving drink to that flower."

Then the wind rises and comes bending down the wheat and sounding its psalm through the forest, and I cry, "Whither away on such swift wing, O wind?" And it replies, "We are going to cool the cheek of that flower." And then I bow down and say, "Will God take care of the grass of the field? And a flower at my foot responds, "Yes; he clothes the lilies of the field, and never yet has forgotten me, a poor little flower.

Again, we need to bring the religion of Christ into our commonest trials. For severe losses, for bereavement, for trouble that shocks like an earthquake and that blasts like a storm, we prescribe religious consolation; but, business man, for the small annoyances of last week, how much of the grace of God did you apply? "Oh," you say, "these trials are too small for such application!" My brother, they are shaping your character, they are souring your temper, they are wearing out your patience and they are making you less and less of a man. I go into a sculptor's studio and see him shaping a statue. He has a chisel in one hand and a mallet in the other, and he gives a gentle stroke—click, click, click! I say, "Why don't you strike harder?" "Oh," he replies, "that would shatter the statue. I can't do it that way; I must do it this way!"

So he works on, and after awhile the features come out, and everybody that enters the studio is charmed and fascinated. Well, God has your soul under process of development, and it is the little annoyances and vexations of life that are chiseling out your immortal nature. It is click, click, click! I wonder why some great providence does not come, and with one stroke prepare you for Heaven. Ah, no. God says that is not the way. And so he keeps on by strokes of little annoyances, little sorrows, little vexations, until at last you shall be a glad spectacle for angels and for men.

We must bring the religion of Christ into our commonest blessings. When the autumn comes and the harvests are in, and the Governors make proclamation, we assemble in churches and we are very thankful. But every day ought to be a thanksgiving day. We do not recognize the common mercies of life. We have to see a blind man led by his dog before we begin to bethink ourselves of what a grand thing it is to have eyesight. We have to see some one afflicted with St. Vitus' dance before we are ready to thank God for the control of our physical energies. We have to see some wounded man holding on his crutch or with his empty coat sleeve pinned up before we learn to think what a grand thing God did for us when he gave us healthy use of our limbs.

We are so stupid that nothing but the misfortunes of others can rouse us up to our blessings. As the ox grazes in the pasture up to its eyes in clover, yet never thinking who makes the clover, and as the bird picks up the worm from the furrow, not knowing that it is God who makes everything, from the animalcula in the sod to the seraph on the throne, so we go on eating, drinking and enjoying, but never thanking or seldom thanking; or, if thanking at all, with only half a heart.

I compared our indifference to the brute; but perhaps I wronged the brute. I do not know but that, among its other instincts, it may have an instinct by which it recognizes the divine hand that feeds it. I do not know but that God is, through it, holding communication with what we call "irrational creation." The cow that stands under the willow by the water course chewing its cud looks very thankful, and who can tell how much a bird means by its song?

The aroma of the flowers smells like incense, and the mist arising from the river looks like the smoke of a morning sacrifice. Oh, that we were as responsive! Yet who thanks God for the water that gushes up in the well, and that foams in the cascade, and that laughs over the rocks, and that patters in the showers, and that claps its hands in the sea? Who thanks God for the air, the fountain of life, the bridge of sunbeams, the path of sound, the great fan on a hot summer's day? Who thanks God for this wonderful physical organism—this sweep of the visions, this chime of harmony struck into the ear, this soft tread of a myriad delights over the nervous tissue, this rolling of the crimson tide through artery and vein, this drumming of the heart on our march to immortality? We take all these things as a matter of course.

But suppose God should withdraw these common blessings! Your body would become an inquisition of torture, the cloud would refuse rain, and the earth would crack open under your feet. The air would cease its healthful circulation, pestilence would swoop, and every house would become a place of skulls. Streams would first swim with vermin and then dry up, and thirst and hunger and anguish and despair would lift their scepters, and compare such a life as that with the life you live this morning with your families about you! Is it not time that with every word of our lips and with every action of our lives, we began to acknowledge these every-day mercies? "Whether ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." Do I address a man or a woman this morning who has not rendered to God one single offering of thanks?

I was preaching one Thanksgiving Day and announced my text, "Oh, give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth forever." I do not know whether there was any blessing on the sermon or not, but the text went straight to a young man's heart. He said to himself, as I read the text: " 'Oh, give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good'—Why, I have never rendered Him any thanks. Oh, what an ingrate I have been!" Can it be, my brother, that you have been fed by the good hand of God all these days—that you have had clothing and shelter and all beneficent surroundings, and yet have never offered your heart to God?

Oh, let a sense of the divine goodness shown you in the everyday blessings melt your heart, and if you have never before uttered one earnest note of thanksgiving let this be the day which shall hear your song. What I say to one I say to all of this audience. Take this practical religion I have recommended into your everyday life. Make every day a Sabbath and every meal a sacrament and every room you enter a holy of holies. We all have work to do; let us be willing to do it. We all have sorrows to bear; let us cheerfully bear them. We all have battles to fight; let us courageously fight them.

If you want to die right you must live right. Negligence and indolence will win the hiss of everlasting scorn, while faithfulness will gather its garlands and wave its scepter, and sit upon its throne long after this earth has put on ashes and eternal ages have begun their march. You go home to-day and attend to your little sphere of duties. I will go home and attend to my little sphere of duties. Every one in his own place. So our every step in life shall be a triumphal march, and the humblest footstool on which we are called to sit will be a conqueror's throne.

Cost of Deporting Chinamen.

In the last eighteen months nearly one hundred Chinamen have been deported. Fully as many have been tried and acquitted.

The Southern Pacific charges $51 from Tacoma for every Chinaman deported. The cost of the trial and capture of a Chinaman is nearly $50. The total expense of capturing, convicting and deporting a Chinaman averages $100. Considering that the time of the Deputy United States Marshal is worth something the cost of capturing those acquitted is $15. Hence the total expense that the Ninth District has incurred in deporting Chinamen in the last year and a half is, counting the services of all the officers, nearly $15,000. This is for one judicial district only and the expense of keeping Chinamen out of this country is said to be quite large.—Seattle Press-Times.

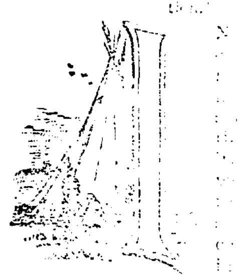
EATING THE MESCAL.

THE STRANGE CEREMONY WITNESSED BY AN ETHNOLOGIST.

Unbiased Account of Religious Rites That Are Dear to the Hearts of the Indian—The Participants Solemn, Decorous and Earnest.

(Copyright, 1892, by American Press Association.)



N a world of [illegible] and unsatisfying [illegible] it is [illegible] that the [illegible] should somehow [illegible] sort oblivion [illegible] turn [illegible] the [illegible] to [illegible] row [illegible] glories and dreams [illegible] cation. In every part of the world man finds some means to satisfy this universal craving, and as the nervous European resorts to exhilarating or maddening liquors, so the contemplative Mongolian has his opium, the lazy Arab his hashish and the nomad savage of the southwest his mescal. While opium and hashish are used by their votaries simply as intoxicants the mescal eating ceremony is a solemn religious rite, seldom observed by a white man, but which it has been the writer's fortune to witness.

Mescal is the name given to several species of cactus growing in the arid regions of northern Mexico, all of which possess intoxicating or narcotic properties. The particular variety eaten by the southwestern tribes is the disk or torus of a species of Mamillaria, looking, when dried, very much like the flattened and shriveled root of the Indian turnip, with a tuft of white cottony down in the center. It has a bitter taste and from four to twelve are necessary to produce the effect, which is not followed by any injurious reaction whatever. In fact almost every species of cactus has a food or medicinal value, and the mescal is reverenced by these tribes not only as a sacred narcotic but as a health bringing panacea for all bodily ills.

Having been studying the ghost dance all winter among these tribes, we had become pretty well acquainted, when one afternoon a young Kiowa came to tell me in a guarded manner that his people intended to eat mescal that night at a camp about ten miles up the Ouachita and would probably be willing to have me present. Accordingly I started about dark, in company with a Comanche and a Mexican who had been captured when a child and brought up by the Kiowas.

At last we reached the camp in a strip of timber close by the river. The white tepees were scattered about among the trees, with the firelight shining out so brightly through the thin canvas that we could count the shadows of the inmates as they sat around the fire within. Going up to a tepee from which proceeded familiar voices my Mexican lifted the door flap and, putting his head inside, explained that his friend who had come so far to visit them was outside and desired to witness the ceremony. After some parleying he told us that it was all right, and raising the flap we stepped inside and were invited to sit down.

In a short time a Kiowa came to announce that the ceremony was about to begin in the sacred lodge, and warned us that before entering we must remove our hats, and, furthermore, that we must not look at any of the participants while they were actually eating the mescal. We found the Indians sitting flat upon some dried weed stalks strewn in a circle close around the sides. There were about thirty Kiowas, Comanches, Apaches, the Mexican and myself. The door faced the east, the ground was cleanly swept and in the center was a firehole, with a crescent shaped mound of earth half encircling it on the farther side and sloping down to the floor at each end. At the right of the doorway sat the master of ceremonies, with a pile of firewood at his side. Opposite him, beyond the crescent mound, sat a young man whose duty it was to distribute the mescal. All sat silently looking intently into the fire as we took our places in the circle.

It was about 10 o'clock when the old man placed a fresh pile of wood on the fire, carefully piling up the sticks in cobhouse fashion, with the ends pointing toward the doorway, and fanning it into a blaze with a beaded eagle feather used only in this ceremony. The feather was also brought into frequent requisition to fan away any particles of ashes which chanced to fall upon the mound. Stretching out his hands toward the fire he then delivered an earnest address, which my interpreter afterward explained was an exhortation to the participants to enter into the ceremony with the proper religious spirit, and a special word to me to the effect that they had permitted me to be present that I might note everything, so that on my return I could tell the government and the white men that it was all good and not bad, and that it was the religion of the Indians in which they believed, and which was as dear to them as ours is to us.

STRETCHED HIS HANDS TOWARD THE FIRE.

The other now produced a package of mescals and selecting the largest one deposited it carefully upon the top of the mound upon a bed of fragrant herbs arranged in the form of a cross. He then distributed the mescals around the circle, giving four to each man.

Each participant now took a mescal in his hand and passing it with a sweeping motion toward the sacred mescal on the mound and on through the blaze of the fire brought it up to his lips. This was repeated four times and at the fourth time he seized the mescal between his teeth and chewed it with a loud crunching noise.

After chewing it awhile he took it in his hand and held it up, looking now like a brown nutmeg, and then throwing back his head swallowed it at a gulp, rubbing his chest and the back of his neck after the operation, presumably to facilitate the descent of the pellet. The remaining three were swallowed in the same way at intervals of perhaps half an hour. This is generally repeated three times in the course of the ceremony, making twelve mescals to each man.

As soon as the first mescals had been eaten the man sitting next the old fire tender took the drum, while his nearest companion took in one hand a rattle and in the other an eagle tail fan and a curiously ornamented stick. This stick was used as a hand rest, one end being set upon the ground, while the fan was for the purpose of screening the eyes from the blaze of the fire in front. The rattle, fan and stick were decorated with various symbolic figures and colors. In its main features the ceremony is a form of elemental worship, the prayers being addressed to the mescal, the fire, the rain, the earth, the sun and the morning star.

The one now began to shake the rattle and started a plaintive mescal chant, while the other kept up an accompaniment with the drum. These chants are hymns to the mescal and the various powers of nature. Like most Indian songs, they are in the minor key. Each couple continued the song for perhaps fifteen minutes and then passed the instruments on to the next two, who started another song, and thus it slowly went around the circle. As the night dragged along the tired ear became almost insensible to the low monotone of the songs and the incessant din of the drum; the fire took on strange shapes as it blazed up and again died down, throwing weird shadows over the dark forms around the circle, until at last the whole thing seemed as unreal and far away as the memory of a dream.

SEEKING AID FOR HIS CHILD.

From time to time the old man placed fresh wood upon the fire and carefully piled up the ashes so as to form a white crescent just within the crescent mound of earth. The mescal was handed around and eaten at intervals until daylight began to shine in through the canvas and we could hear the Indians stirring about the camp outside.

Now the door flap was suddenly lifted and a man stepped in, carrying in his arms an infant. The child was sick almost to death and as a last hope he had brought it to the sacred lodge to be prayed for by the priests of the mescal. There was something deeply affecting in the pathetic earnestness of the father as he watched the priests praying over his child, which seemed in a stupor and made no sound. The ceremony completed, he left as silently as he entered.

The sun mounted higher and higher, and the fire burned low until at last, when nearly noon, the singers took up the raven song, which is always the final one. While this was being sung the door flap was again raised and some women on the outside handed in pans of hashed meat, parched corn soaked in water, heavy cakes of bread and coffee. As soon as the song ended these were passed around the circle, each man taking what he wanted. Before eating each one threw a small piece of meat into the fire as an offering. The fire received also a piece of bread from each man, while one or two grains of corn were placed upon the mound and a few drops of coffee poured over it as a libation.

With a final prayer and another request from the old man that I should go back and tell the whites that the Indians had a religion of their own which they loved, the ceremony ended. From sitting full fourteen hours in such a cramped position, with the constant din of the songs and instruments and the glare of the fire in my eyes, I was pretty well used up and for awhile hardly able to move, but the mescal eaters appeared to be as fresh as when they began. Before we had made ready our horses to depart the sacred lodge had been taken down and only the mound of earth and the ashes remained to show where it had been.

Sound Carried by the Ellipse.

The Mormon temple at Salt Lake City, which is of enormous dimensions, is built in the form of a true ellipse, and a person standing in the focus at one end can carry on a conversation in a whisper with another who places himself in the focus at the other end.

Half a teaspoonful of sugar will nearly always revive a dying fire, and, unlike the few drops of coal oil which some people are so fond of using, and which have caused so many sad accidents, is perfectly safe.

The Express Companies Combine Against a Rival.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27.—The express companies have combined with a view of crushing in its infancy the new labor organization going under the name of the Express Messengers' Brotherhood. Since the strike of the southern express messengers the fact has been developed that that organization is not a local one but a national one in scope and secret in character. It organized in the east and worked west According to a number of the brotherhood men three-fourths of the messengers east of the Mississippi are members, but the west has not been full canvassed as yet, though the expectations are that all those west of the river will be within the fold within six months. Application has been made for admittance to the Federation of Railway employes. After they are admitted the demands will be upon various companies to right certain wrongs of which the messengers complain

PRAYING TO DIE.

Cyrus W. Field is Lying Very Near Death's Door.

NEW YORK, Jan 27.—Cyrus W. Field is praying to die. No one who has known him believed that he would ever yield to anything that assailed him until breath ceased. But it is otherwise. "Oh, it's no use; no use," he faintly says. "It's all nothing now. Oh, that it should come to this. I want to die, don't do anything for me, I shall not live," is uttered with feeble voice. The climax of Mr. Field's illness has crushed those who watch and love him and baffles the physician's skill The sick man last night was just lingering along, with no marked change.

The Wood Will Case.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Charles Stewart Parnell, in the Wood will case proceedings produced in court her bank book with the debit pages sealed. She then made an affidavit to the effect that the sealed pages were irrelevant. In the court of appeals today Mrs Ann and Irene Couragem, the intervenors, made an application for an order to compel the bank examiners in which she deposited her money to bring its ledgers into court so as to show how Mrs. Parnell's bank accounts stood The court declined to grant the application, saying that the judge who will preside at the trial of the suit could order the production of the books if he so desired. It is expected that the case will come up for trial in all probability at the beginning of March.

The baron in his amendment charges that the baroness behaved improperly with one Elliott Z Borrowsky, alias William Elliott.

WAR ECHOES.

The Reply of Chili Not Yet at Hand—Will be Made Public Next Saturday.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan 27. -Minister Montt was shown the dispatch from Santiago published in the morning papers, to the effect that members of the Chilian cabinet had said in interviews that Senor Montt had misled his government as to the state of affairs between the United States and Chili by cabling them that a settlement of affairs was proceeding in a satisfactory manner. Minister Montt said he was unable to say that there was any truth in the publications, as he had not been advised by his govrenment that he had made an error of judgment. When asked if he had sent such a dispatch to the Chilian minister of foreign affairs, he laughed and replied evasively that he had sent a large number of dispatches to Chili lately So far as can be learned at this time no instructions have yet gone to Minister Egan respecting the reply of Chili to the note of the United States of the 21st inst. The reply of Chili is said to be a lengthy document, 3,000 words or more, covering the whole trend of the controversy in a general way. A gentleman, who is believed to be conversant with its contents, said that it was a very clever piece of diplomatic work, to which another gentleman with whom he was talking, engaged in the diplomatic service, speaking of the terms of the reply as they have been given in the press, responded: "It is pure trifling." "Oh, but all diplomacy is trifling," said the first speaker, and all seemed to agree. The reply, as stated in these dispatches yesterday, is most unsatisfactory, for the reason that it contains nothing definite on the subject of an apology for the assault upon the Baltimore's sailors, although Senor Pereira, the minister of foreign affairs, says the government of Chili deplores its occurrence, as it has in the past. The offer to refer the case to the United States court for arbitration is said to relate only to the amount of indemnity to be paid As to the withdrawal of the Matta circular note of December 11th, the reply makes no mention of it according to the demand that a disavowal of the offensive terms contained in that note be made as public and general as was the circulation of the note originally. The recall of 'Minister Egan as requested by Minister Montt on the 20th inst., will not be insisted on by the Chilian government. The above, it is believed, covers the principal points of the document. It will probably not be sent to congress until the minister has been instructed what answer to make and his report thereon has been received

Information from Secretary Blaine, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, states that Chili, in reply, had offered to make reparation and that it is a very satisfactory reply.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—Nothing was heard in San Francisco yesterday but war talk The sentiment here is unanimous for war with Chili if she does not make ample apology. There is great activity about military posts. Plans for the batteries on the San Francisco shore are all completed and work is under way. Colonel Graham is present attending the triangulation for the benefit of artillery men. In case of war San Francisco will be the chief base of supplies, and the distributing point for men and munitions of war.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The Times correspondent at Santiago de Chili cables that the position of Senor Pedro Montt at Washington is seriously compromised, he having advised his government all along that Mr. Blaine constantly gave him pacific assurances.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—A telegram from Santiago says that the text of Chili's reply to the American ultimatum will not be published until Saturday.

A MYSTERY.

A Man Drops Out of a Third Story Window and Disappears.

TOLEDO, Jan. 27.—A very curious and startling incident happened at the Merchant's hotel last night and it is also something of a mystery. About 3 o'clock this morning Louis Holt, the bartender, was sitting in the hotel office, when he saw a man drop down the front of the hotel to the sidewalk and run down Perry street.

Holt started in pursuit but could not catch the fellow, and he disappeared over the Swan creek bridge

Upon investigation it was discovered that the man was John Winkleman, a guest of the hotel who had arrived last evening, and registered from Kalida, Ohio. He had paid for supper, lodging and breakfast and was perfectly sober when he went to bed. To get out the way he did he dropped from a third-story window to the balcony at the second story and from there to the ground He had on all his clothes, but left some soiled linen in the room

He has not returned, nor has he been seen since and the case is a profound mystery, as the hotel people can offer no probable explanation for his strange action and disappearance.

Boston Parties Secure the Finest Hotel Property in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 27.—The Lindell hotel, a six-story structure of 500 rooms, one of the finest buildings of its character in the western country, located at the northwest corner of Washington avenue and Sixth street, where the premises cover an area of 182x243 feet, fronting also on Lucas avenue, was sold today for $600,000, to Chicago parties, who have about effected a re-sale of the realty to Boston people for a good round advance. The grantor was Mrs Vincent Marmaduke, widow of Henry Ames

WANTS INDEMNITY.

The Brother and Sisters of the Late John I. Riggin Preparing a Case Against Chili.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—John I Riggins, of this city, brother of Charles W. Riggin, the boatswain's mate of the cruiser Baltimore, whose brutal murder by the Chilians in the streets of Valparaiso was called to the attention of congress in President Harrison's message, consulted Attorney W. W Ker yesterday with regard to the identity that will be expected from Chili for the taking of his relative's life The result of the interview will be the early filing with the secretary of state of a claim for damages on behalf of the brother and sisters of deceased, Mrs Mary Zimmerman and Mrs. Ella Mathews, both of this county. When Captain Ker, who was assistant attorney general of the United States under the late Benjamin Harris Brewster, during President Arthur's administration, and who is familiar with all the details involved in the legal procedure of such matters, was asked as to the course he would pursue, he said: "I suppose that in this instance the matter will be arranged as in all such cases Chili will be compelled to pay a certain sum of money for the indemnification of the sufferers. These are special cases of damage, and there is no law governing them The actual injury sustained is not the guide, but damages are awarded with a view of a punishment upon the aggressor to serve as a warning to others In this way the parties interested receive not only the ordinary loss, but get what the law calls vindicative or explenary damages" Counsellor Ker has not made up his mind yet as to the exact amount to press for. After further consultation with his clients he will at once notify the state and naval departmen s of the claims that will be presented.

BIG WILL.

An Estate of Over $1,000,000 Disposed of by J. I. Case.

RACINE, Wis., Jan 27.—In the county court here yesterday the last will of the late Jerome I. Case was admitted probate. According to the will Mr. Case left an estate valued at $1,100,000. Of this amount $1,000,000 was in personal property and $100,000 in real estate After provisions are made for the funeral expenses, the will bequeaths to the widow the homestead on Main street, also $100,000 and also bank stock in several banks. To Chas H. Lee he bequeaths in trust $80,000 for his children To his sister, Mrs. Jane Wright, of Denver, Col., is left $5,000 in trust, and to Florence Hollbrooke, of Chicago, $2,000 All the rest of the property goes to the children and he expresses a desire that his son, Jackson I. Case, manage the interests in the J. I Case thrashing machine works. Lydia Case, Jackson I. Case and H. M. Wallis are named as the executors.

HILL CRITICISED.

The World and Times Speak of the Senator in a Sarcastic Way.

NEW YORK, Jan 27.—Commenting on the selection by the democratic state committee of Albany. February 22d, as the place and date for the democratic state convention, the World says. "A delegation from New York, chosen after only twenty-four days notice, three months earlier than the convention in 1888 and four months in advance of that of 1884, can hardly command the respect at Chicago which would belong to a delegation chosen at the usual time, in the customary manner and after a full and free canvass of the democratic voters Senator Hill will have a united delegation from New York to the national convention. Nevertheless, we think that Senator Hill, who seldom errs in matters political, has made a mistake."

The Times says: "The Hill managers undoubtedly congratulate themselves, and with reason, on their control of the party machinery They have yet to learn that there is a wide difference between the power to nominate and the power to elect."

MUSGRAVE'S CASE.

An Important Law Point Decided by Judge Taylor.

TERRE HAUTE, Jan. 27.—A jury was secured in the Musgrave life insurance swindle case yesterday. Judge Taylor decided against Musgrave on the plea in abatement filed for the prisoner. The question had never been decided in Indiana and much interest was felt in it in legal circles Judge Taylor held that a man might be tried on another charge than that on which he had been extradited. The court declared that there was a difference between international extradition, where this rule is strictly laid down, and inter-state extradition on account of the comity and sovereignty that binds the states. Trout, the confederate, secured a separate trial and will not be tried till later

BERLIN, Jan. 27 -In connection with the cabinet crisis it is now said that the emperor on Saturday last made an unexpected call upon Count Zeedlitz, the minister of education, and that he then sent for Herr Miquel and Herr Bender The whole party discussed the situation until midday, with the result that Herr Miquel consented to remain in office The education bill had been discussed in committee The emperor is said to be opposed to forcing the bill against the wishes of the nationalists and liberals It will be recalled that in addition to the offer of the resignation of Herr Miquel, Dr. Von Boetticher, secretary of the interior; Herr Herfurth, minister of the interior, and Baron Von Berlepsic, minister of commerce, also threatened to resign if the bill is passed There is no doubt that the emperor is loath to abandon this, one of his pet projects, yet he is said to be inclined to do so in view of the stand taken by his ministers

THE BALTIMORE.

A Magnificent Oil Painting of the Man of War.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 27.—The crew of the United States steamship Baltimore have sent overland from California to the Baltimore Sun, a magnificent oil painting of the Baltimore. The picture on a canvas five feet two inches long by three feet high shows the man of war leaving Naples for Chili; whither she was ordered before the Itata case. Vesuvius and the city of Naples are seen in the back ground and the picture is a portrait of the Bay of Naples as well as of the ship It was painted in Italy while the Baltimore was there. The occasion of the presentation was a desire on the part of sailors to show their gratitude to Messrs. A. S. Abell & Co for giving to their ship the fine Abell library, open to the men as well as to officers, and for the part the Sun took in the six days' entertainment of the men and their officers in May, 1890, when the cruiser ... to Baltimore city, and the sailors ... AN ALBANY BLAZE.

A Church Edifice and Five Residences Destroyed by Fire.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan 27 - Fire was discovered at 4 15 o'clock this morning in the French Church of Assumption, on Hamilton street, and in ten minutes the entire structure, which was a frame one, was wrapped in flames The priest in charge, Father Lavigne, rushed in to save the sacrament, but he had to turn and flee for his life. In half an hour nothing but bare, blackened posts remained. The flames spread to the pastor's house on the west and to a four story brick and three two-story frame houses on the east. The entire fire department was called out and for at least five hours there was a hard fight for supremacy, the firemen gradually getting the better of the fire The pastor's house was thoroughly wrecked, and the frame dwellings, occupied by nine colored families, were entirely destroyed The entire loss is about $30,000. The church was valued at $10,000 and was insured for $6,000. The thermometer registered four degrees below zero, and a high wind was blowing The firemen suffered intensely with the cold, some of them being literally encased with ice an inch thick and which had to be broken death Monda night, residence of George Myers, three mi. from Kendallville The house caught fire while the family of nine was asleep. Seven of the inmates escaped by jumping from the upper windows, all receiving more or less severe injuries In the morning when the fire burned itself out, the neighbors raked over the ashes to find the bodies In each corner of the south side of the site of the house were found portions of the bones. That on the southwest corner was a skull and a portion of the right shoulder and arm The top of the skull crumbled after being dragged from the fire, exposing the brain, which was literally cooked. The body found in the other corner bore still less likeness to anything human It was evidently the stomach and right hip, but so shrunken, roasted, and altogether so gruesome a sight that the spectators turned from it sick at heart.

BURNED TO DEATH.

The Sad Fate of a Woman Eighty-Four Years Old.

DECATUR, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Barbara Hudson, aged eighty-four years, living with her son one mile and a half from this place, was found burned to a crisp yesterday evening Mr Hudson went out to do some work, and upon returning found his mother lying upon the floor, her clothes all burned off except that part she was lying upon. She was still alive when found, but died before medical aid could be secured The only explanation that can be given by her son is that she was lighting her pipe and the fire was communicated to her clothing. She was a pioneer, had lived here for fifty years and had raised a large family.

BUT LITTLE CRIME.

January Has Been an Extraordinarily Dull Month in the Courts of the City.

Newspaper reporters, who are never so happy as when there are a number of sensational cases in the criminal courts to record, have been at their wit's ends during the last few weeks for something to write about in this department of local news, for an air of dullness has pervaded criminal circles, and sensations have been so few that readers sometimes complain, but this should not be charged up to the account of the newspaper reporters. The fact is there is but little criminal news to get Conversing upon this subject this morning, Chief of Police Wilkinson said: "This has been the dullest month in criminal circles since I have been on the police force, and that has been for fifteen years." Marshal Franke was met a few moments afterward and said: "There have been fewer arrests made this month than during any month since I have been marshal of the city." The reporter stepped up stairs to the mayor's office and to our question Col Zollinger said "There was nothing in police court this morning."

peror William of ... the empire consequently is more or less en fete. The imperial family, after the breakfast hour, waited in a body upon the emperor and presented him with numerous floral offerings and with many presents. The emperor seemed to be much pleased and said a few gracious words to all present At 10.30 this morning the imperial family attended religious services at the Chapel Royal of the castle. A largely attended reception in the white-hall followed, all the leading members of the diplomatic corps being present. In the mean time a detachment of artillery in the Lustgarten fired an imperial salute of 101 guns. At twelve thirty there was a grand military reception, all the most prominent officers of the army and navy being in attendance. The emperor also received the members of the government and was presented with congratulatory addresses from the mayors and municipalities of many of the great and small cities of the empire. The emperor, throughout these ceremonies, was beaming with good humor and was warmly greeted by the prominent personages who attended the different receptions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.— ... today, Mr. Gibson, from the ... on naval affairs, report... dry dock at Algiers, La., a... $350,000 Mr. Hale from ... committee, reported favorably ... tion asking the president for information as to steps taken for soundings between San Francisco and Honolulu and other points in the Pacific for a submarine cable according to the provisions of the last naval bill Adopted

Mr. Morgan asked immediate consideration of a resolution calling for the state department correspondence with China regarding Mr. Blair. It was important to learn what the United States intended to do when notified that a gentleman of such high reputation had been rejected by the government to which he was accredited This became additionally important from its bearing on another case where the United States and another government had become much embroiled. Mr. Morgan's resolution, as modified, was adopted.

Mr. Hoar, from the committee on elections, called up the resolution declaring Horace A Chilton entitled to the seat in the senate made vacant by the resignation of James Reagan He explained that the committee had concluded that the governor's appointment of Mr. Chilton was legal. After some debate the resolution was adopted and Mr Chilton was confirmed in his seat

The bids for the new Laporte county court house, the plans for which were drawn by Architect Brent S. Tolan, of this city, were opened at Laporte yesterday Several Fort Wayne contractors were among the bidders and William Geake, who was associated with J. W. Cotterell & Co., Cincinnati, came in second best but the plum went to W. L. Moses, a Chicago contractor. The bids were as follows J. W. Cotterell, of Cincinnati, and Wm Geake, of Fort Wayne, $183,635, John Suelzer, Fort Wayne, $191,911 40, C Bosseker, Fort Wayne, $197,026.58 W. L. Moses, Chicago, $178,554, Wilson & Son, Valparaiso, $194,185; Lee, Coates, Dunlap & Co., $190 265 10, Lewman & Co., Jeffersonville, $203,341.08, George Jaap, Fort Wayne, $194,985, Longshore Bros., Valparaiso, $221,337 The contract was awarded to W. L. Moses The bid was for the building complete except the plumbing and steam heating and the Indiana buff stone to be used. Should the commissioners see fit to decide on red stone, which they probably will, the cost will be increased $15,000 to $20,000 Architect Tolan will superintend the entire contract

INSTITUTE AND CONVENTION.

The Allen County Sunday School Representatives Meet.

Yesterday afternoon there was held in the auditorium of the city Y. M. C. A. the first Allen county Sunday school convention in three years. Owing to unfavorable circumstances a meeting could not be advantageously called until now.

Rev C. N Pond, superintendent of the American Sunday School Union, took charge. The afternoon session lasted two hours, during which the following officers were elected: W. D. Page, president; H. C. Schrader, secretary; W. E Mossman, treasurer. It was decided to hold next April or May in this city the district convention consisting of representatives from the counties of Allen, Adams, Wells and Huntington. The county convention will be held here at the same time.

At the evening session bible readings and addresses took up most of the time In addition to the officers elected at the afternoon session, Miss Annie Philley was chosen assistant secretary. The executive board now consists of Messrs. Page, Schrader, Rev Ainslie, E. A. K. Hackett and Mrs. D. B. Wells.

A collection was taken up one half

... at Captain Smith took an assistant last fall. ...d he was a widower, and ... Captain Smith to allow the little girl, his daughter, to live in his house while he was in the captain's service.

The lo... gaunt, red-haired man had afterward gone to Cuba to enter upon a new employment. He asked Mrs. Smith to take care of the child, and as he agreed to pay for her board and Mrs. Smith had, besides, formed an attachment for her, Ollie continued to live in the Smith household.

The words Mrs. Smith had overheard were but the rambling exclamations of a dreamer, but Mrs Smith thought that they might perhaps have been the unbidden expressions of an overburdened heart, and in the morning Ollie was questioned. The child admitted that her mother was living, and gave the names of several relatives in Fall River, Mass.

As the result of correspondence the mother of the little child presented herself at Mr Smith's house yesterday and little Ollie flew to her arms

The reunion was pathetic. Mrs. Hackett said that her husband had deserted her and stolen the child from her and that she had hunted all through the east for her but without avail

Worry and anxiety had finally mastered her, and when the news that "Ollie" had been found came to her at last she was on a sick bed Feeble and unable to endure the strain of travel as she was, love had lent strength to her feet, and she had hastened to Jersey City to claim her flaxen-haired pet and take her to her home and bosom again.

Misses Bessie Stein and Carrie Coleman left yesterday for a visit with friends at Butler, Ind. Before returning home they will circulate among friends at Findlay, Ohio.

The action of the Natural Gas company in shutting off the services of manufacturers has made a lively demand for coal and dealers are busier than they have been for a long time.

As the north star shines like a beacon of hope to the home-returning mariner and lights him on his weary way, so does Miss McPheeters, the famous prima donna of the Chicago Ideals, illuminate the horizon of the lyric stage.

Bear in mind the prayer and praise service at Dr Driver's church tonight. There will be a crisp and pointed talk by the pastor, fervent prayers, convincing testimonies and spirited and enthusiastic singing. Every member present and a host of outsiders.

There was quite a distinguished party registered at the Randall last evening. Ex-Speaker Mason J. Niblack, accompanied by Roy E Purcell, editor of the Vincennes Sun, H. A. Fuller, cashier of the Vincennes bank, and H. Frund, superintendent of the Vincennes electric light company, made up the party. The three latter gentlemen went to Cleveland and Mr Niblack left this afternoon for Columbia City.

Judge R S Taylor will have in the February Arena an able article on the dangers of our present electoral system. An able critic states that the paper is exceedingly timely, and one which will doubtless cause considerable comment throughout the country, on account of its fair and thoughtful treatment of the subject, to which the president directed the attention of congress in his last address. Judge Taylor always writes interestingly and his article will attract a great deal of interest.

Fort Wayne lodge, No 235, I. O. G. T., had a very enthusiastic meeting last evening at their lodge room, No 138 Calhoun street. This lodge is doing a good work for temperance in this city, and ought to receive more encouragement than it gets from the ministry and Christian people of this city. It meets every Monday night and all persons desirous of doing something for temperance and Christianity should become members of it. The meeting last evening after the election of officers was addressed by Dr. J. W. Younge.

C O Lepper, the druggist, will give a reception at Schroeder's hall tomorrow evening in honor of several friends from Chicago, who will be his guests

There was a big crowd at both performances at the Museum last night. "Jo Jo" is the attraction in the curio hall and Geary's Dramatic company on the stage.

County Assessor Stephen Heath has remembered the clerks in the auditor's office with an abundant supply of apples, which are on tap to all their friends, who are urged to call and help themselves

The noted evangelist, Mrs. Clara E Babcock, arrived in the city at 2 p. m. from Chicago today and is the guest of Mrs R. J Fisher. She begins the revival services this evening at the Central church, corner Wayne and Harrison streets

On Thursday evening, Jan 28, the city department of the Y. M C A. will give its second musicale on the members course. The talent is of the best and all association members, contributors and persons holding tickets in the star course are entitled to reserved seats by calling at the office.

It is quite likely the Indiana board of world's fair commissioners will hasten the time of its next meeting from early in March to February 4. This will be due to the fact that Henry Ives Cobb, the architect of the Indiana building, has not yet been submitted the specifications for the building, which he should have done a month ago. This greatly delays the letting of the contracts, and it is proposed to bring Mr. Cobb to time for his negligence

A horrible discovery was made at the northern insane hospital at Logansport Sunday night. For the past two days an unusual odor has been noticed coming from a flue. Superintendent Rogers was notified and an investigation ordered. At the bottom of the flue in the cellar was found the body of B. F. Hutson, a patient from Elkhart county, who on Thursday last disappeared. It was supposed he had escaped, as he was allowed the privilege of the grounds. Hutson was found in a sitting position, strangled by a rope attached to a pipe above him. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition.

Red Maria, a fine running mare, which years ago was entered in numerous races on Indiana track, and which won ninety-eight of one hundred races in which she was entered, died in Wabash county yesterday on the farm of Thomas Thorne, aged thirty. Red Maria during the war was a colt beside her dam, the latter belonging to a rebel officer. Both were captured by General Stanley, who took the dam west with him, selling the colt to Isaac Thorne, of Wabash county, who afterward sold her to Samuel Wertenberger. Mr Wertenberger at his death willed her to Thomas Thorne, who has since owned her, Mr. Wertenberger having required a pledge, which was religiously observed, that Red Maria should never be worked. Isaac Thorne once refused an offer of $3,000 for her.

The board of management of the Y. M. C. A. held their regular meeting last night and elected the following officers: President, E. A. K. Hackett; vice president, C. H. Newton; treasurer, E. S. THEY WANT IT HERE.

Fort Wayne Republicans Working Hard for the State Convention.

A meeting of leading republicans was held at the Morton club rooms this morning to talk over the prospects for securing to Fort Wayne the state republican convention. D. N. Foster, H. C. Hanna, W. J. Vesey and others addressed the meeting but no definite line of action was settled upon. Another meeting will be held in a few days, when committees will be appointed to do the hustling. Indianapolis, in the meantime, is making boasts that it has a mortgage on the convention.

A Card.

I desire to announce that on account of sickness, I have withdrawn all my interests from the book firm of Hauk & Barens, 228½ Calhoun street, with whom I have been associated since the death of my husband, and that I am not now in any way connected with the said firm. I have done this on account of ill health and wish the firm success, knowing that they are deserving of the patronage of the public

MRS. CATHERINE BARENS.

PETER RUDOLPH PICKEL.

The Young Hoosier Poet Will be Married at New York City.

It is announced that Peter Rudolph Pickel, formerly of this county, but now engaged in literary pursuits at New York city, will be married at that place on the evening of Feb 16. Mr. Pickel is the brilliant Hoosier poet who is now winning fame in Gotham by his beautifully written verses. His poems have appeared in THE SENTINEL. He is also a regular contributor for several leading metropolitan dailies

CORA RAPP FEARS VIOLENCE.

The Wife of Actor Hawley Chapman Has Him Put Under Restraint.

A special from New York today says that Goffrey Hawley Chapman was arrested yesterday afternoon on complaint of his wife, formerly Cora Rapp of this city, who feared that her life was in danger while he remained in the house. Chapman has been, it is said, extremely unruly since the trial of Searvant for shooting his wife. He will be examined as to his sanity today.

HON. P. S. O'ROURKE.

He Will Address the Democracy and the Citizens in General.

Tomorrow evening, at the circuit court room, Hon. P. S. O'Rourke will address the democracy and citizens in general on the subject of "Democracy." The meeting will be given under the auspices of the Democratic Railroad club. Mr. O'Rourke is a strong champion of the democratic cause, and his arguments are forcible. He will have a large audience.

FIELDEN AND SCHWAB.

General Butler Closes His Arguments in Their Behalf.

WASHINGTON, Jan 26.—Every seat within the bar and in the space reserved for spectators in the chamber of the United States supreme court was occupied today when the court met and crowds of persons who were unable to secure seats stood around the dome. The unusual attendance was the result of the announcement that General Benjamin F Butler would deliver the closing argument in the proceedings instituted to secure the release of the Chicago anarchists, Fielden and Schwab, who are now confined in the Joliet penitentiary for complicity in the Haymarket tragedy. Attorney General Hunt, of Illinois, appeared for the state in the case and Moses Salmonon, of Chicago, is associated with General Butler in behalf of the anarchists

General Butler began his argument at 12 25 o'clock. He was attired in evening dress. He began his argument by telling the court that he believed he could aid them by first stating the exact case as it seemed to him to appear. The aged lawyer spoke slowly but not so feebly as he did when argument was heard in the case last week. Soon as he began speaking he had occasion to read from the decision delivered by the supreme court in the hebeas corpus proceedings in the anarchists' case shortly before the four principals in the Haymarket affair were hanged. General Butler requested Mr. Salmonon, his associate, to read this citation. "I hope the court will excuse me from reading," he said, "for I am afraid my voice would not hold out." Mr. Salmonon read all extracts for General Butler throughout the argument.

An Important Person.

There are not a few men who fancy that, because they are persons of wealth and consequence in a community, they are exempt from the duties and liabilities of the ordinary citizen. A man of this sort was drawn to serve upon a jury and did not appear when his name was called in court. The court ordered that he be fined twenty-five dollars.

About half an hour afterward the man appeared in the courtroom to answer tardily to his name.

"You have been fined twenty-five dollars for nonattendance," said the judge.

"But I had a very important business engagement!" said the man.

"Did you suppose that an engagement would excuse you for not answering the summons of the court?" answered the judge rather angrily.

The juror, who was a pompous man with an important air, began to grow indignant at being addressed in this way.

"I would have your honor understand," he exclaimed, "that I am one of the most prominent business men in this community!"

"Oh! in that case," said the judge quietly, "you will be able to stand a larger fine. Mr. Clerk, you will increase this gentleman's fine for nonattendance to fifty dollars!"—Youth's Companion.

Too Extravagant.

Reverend Aminadab Bledsoe, of the Austin Blue Light tabernacle, met Sam Webster, an Austin darky, and asked how he was off for firewood

"I reckon," said Sam, "I'se got about five cords."

"Dat's gwine to last you fru de winter," said Bledsoe, who wanted to borrow some fuel.

A Pretender.

During a sham fight Napoleon came unawares upon a soldier who was lying fast asleep in a field among the corn.

"Is this your post?" exclaimed the emperor, rousing him with the full intention of making an example of him. The soldier, thus suddenly startled out of his slumber, rubbed his eyes, and, on recognizing the emperor, sprang to his feet, presented arms and said:

"I beg your majesty's pardon, but we were going through a sham fight, and in order to make the illusion more complete I was pretending to be dead."

The Wrong Medicine.

Mother—Now, my dear Francois, just drink up this camomile tea nicely, and you will soon be better.

Little Francois—Camomile tea! I thought I was going to have milk punch!

Mother—No, darling; camomile tea is the best thing you can take.

Had To.

A fat woman entered a crowded car, and, seizing the strap, stood on a gentleman's toes. As soon as he could extricate himself he arose and offered her his seat.

"You are very kind, sir," she replied.

"Not at all, madam," he replied, "it's not kindness, it's self defense."—Comic.

Too Little.

Children very soon learn the ways of their elders, and catching their methods of thought use them, in childish fashion, to evolve conclusions of their own. Sometimes these results show a baby wisdom, and again they are only worth a smile.

Freddy is the son of a millionaire, and has from his earliest childhood lived in an atmosphere of pomp and pretense. He hears a great deal about money and what it will buy, and he is under the impression that "poor folks" really have very little business in the world at all.

One day his long suffering governess gave him a little sum in percentage, the result of which would show how much capital a man must have to gain a certain income. Freddy worked away with determination, but evidently to no purpose. The answer would not come, and his face contracted an earnest scowl.

"Well, Freddy," said his teacher at the end of fifteen minutes, "how are you getting on?"

"Not at all," was the reply. "I can't make it come out right. I don't know how I can do it any differently, and I keep getting the same answer every time."

"What answer do you get?"

"Fifty thousand dollars."

"Why, that's right! What made you think it wasn't?"

Freddy looked at the figures in some disgust.

"Anybody would know it couldn't be right," said he haughtily. "Nobody would think of having such a small capital as $50,000!"—Youth's Companion.

North Carolina Distances.

"About how far is it to Gourdville?" asked the stranger of a North Carolinian, who sat on the veranda holding up the front side of his house.

"Two hoots an a look, I reck'n," was the laconic reply.

"Well, how far is that?" queried the stranger impatiently.

"Twicet as fur as yo' kin holler an as fur as yo' kin see beyond thet."

"But I'm consumptive and can't 'holler' at all," urged the traveler. "How am I to tell anything from such a direction as that?"

"Better look twicet an not holler at all," was the answer. "Gourdville ain't wuth hollerin about nohow."—Boston Post.

The Express Companies Combine Against a Rival.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27.—The express companies have combined with a view of crushing in its infancy the new labor organization going under the name of the Express Messengers' Brotherhood. Since the strike of the southern express messengers the fact has been developed that that organization is not a local one but a national one in scope and secret in character. It organized in the east and worked west. According to a number of the brotherhood men three-fourths of the messengers east of the Mississippi are members, but the west has not been full canvassed as yet, though the expectations are that all those west of the river will be within the fold within six months. Application has been made for admittance to the Federation of Railway employes. After they are admitted the demands will be upon various companies to right certain wrongs of which the messengers complain.

PRAYING TO DIE.

Cyrus W. Field is Lying Very Near Death's Door.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Cyrus W. Field is praying to die. No one who has known him believed that he would ever yield to anything that assailed him until breath ceased. But it is otherwise. "Oh, it's no use; no use," he faintly says. "It's all nothing now. Oh, that it should come to this. I wan't to die, don't do anything for me; I shall not live." is uttered with feeble voice. The climax of Mr. Field's illness has crushed those who watch and love him and baffles the physician's skill. The sick man last night was just lingering along, with no marked change.

The Wood Will Case.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Charles Stewart Parnell, in the Wood will case proceedings produced in court her bank book with the debit pages sealed. She then made an affidavit to the effect that the sealed pages were irrevalent. In the court of appeals today Mrs. Ann and Irene Couragem, the interveners, made an application for an order to compel the bank examiners in which she deposited her money to bring its ledgers into court so as to show how Mrs. Parnell's bank accounts stood. The court declined to grant the application, saying that the judge who will preside at the trial of the suit could order the production of the books if he so desired. It is expected that the case will come up for trial in all probability at the beginning of March.

An Untrue Wife.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Jan. 27.—Baron Destuers, minister to the Netherlands, whose wife is in this city applying for a divorce, yesterday charged the baroness with infidelity. The charge came up on a motion to amend the baron's answer to his wife's complaint. The arguments on the motion will be made today. The baron in his amendment charges that the baroness behaved improperly with one Elliott Z. Borrowsky, alias William Elliott.

WAR ECHOES.

The Reply of Chili Not Yet at Hand—Will be Made Public Next Saturday.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan 27.—Minister Montt was shown the dispatch from Santiago published in the morning papers, to the effect that members of the Chilian cabinet had said in interviews that Senor Montt had misled his government as to the state of affairs between the United States and Chili by cabling them that a settlement of affairs was proceeding in a satisfactory manner. Minister Montt said he was unable to say that there was any truth in the publications, as he had not been advised by his government that he had made an error of judgment. When asked if he had sent such a dispatch to the Chilian minister of foreign affairs, he laughed and replied evasively that he had sent a large number of dispatches to Chili lately. So far as can be learned at this time no instructions have yet gone to Minister Egan respecting the reply of Chili to the note of the United States of the 21st inst. The reply of Chili is said to be a lengthy document, 3,000 words or more, covering the whole trend of the controversy in a general way. A gentleman, who is believed to be conversant with its contents, said that it was a very clever piece of diplomatic work, to which another gentleman with whom he was talking, engaged in the diplomatic service, speaking of the terms of the reply as they have been given in the press, responded. "It is pure trifling." "Oh, but all diplomacy is trifling," said the first speaker, and all seemed to agree. The reply, as stated in these dispatches yesterday, is most unsatisfactory, for the reason that it contains nothing definite on the subject of an apology for the assault upon the Baltimore's sailors, although Senor Peirera, the minister of foreign affairs, says the government of Chili deplores its occurrence, as it has in the past. The offer to refer the case to the United States court for arbitration is said to relate only to the amount of indemnity to be paid. As to the withdrawal of the Matta circular note of December 11th, the reply makes no mention of it according to the demand that a disavowal of the offensive terms contained in that note be made as public and general as was the circulation of the note originally. The recall of Minister Egan as requested by Minister Montt on the 20th inst., will not be insisted on by the Chilian government. The above, it is believed, covers the principal points of the document. It will probably not be sent to congress until the minister has been instructed what answer to make and his report thereon has been received.

Information from Secretary Blaine, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, states that Chili, in reply, had offered to make reparation and that it is a very satisfactory reply.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—Nothing was heard in San Francisco yesterday but war talk. The sentiment here is unanimous for war with Chili if she does not make ample apology. There is great activity about military posts. Plans for the batteries on the San Francisco shore are all completed and work is under way. Colonel Graham is present attending the triangulation for the benefit of artillery men. In case of war San Francisco will be the chief base of supplies, and the distributing point for men and munitions of war.

LONDON, Jan 27.—The Times correspondent at Santiago de Chili cables that the position of Senor Pedro Montt at Washington is seriously compromised, he having advised his government all along that Mr. Blaine constantly gave him pacific assurances.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—A telegram from Santiago says that the text of Chili's reply to the American ultimatum will not be published until Saturday.

A MYSTERY.

A Man Drops Out of a Third Story Window and Disappears.

TOLEDO, Jan. 27.—A very curious and startling incident happened at the Merchant's hotel last night and it is also something of a mystery. About 3 o'clock this morning Louis Holt, the bartender, was sitting in the hotel office, when he saw a man drop down the front of the hotel to the sidewalk and run down Perry street.

Holt started in pursuit but could not catch the fellow, and he disappeared over the Swan creek bridge.

Upon investigation it was discovered that the man was John Winkleman, a guest of the hotel who had arrived last evening, and registered from Kalida, Ohio. He had paid for supper, lodging and breakfast and was perfectly sober when he went to bed. To get out the way he did he dropped from a third-story window to the balcony at the second story and from there to the ground. He had on all his clothes, but left some soiled linen in the room.

He has not returned, nor has he been seen since and the case is a profound mystery, as the hotel people can offer no probable explanation for his strange action and disappearance.

CHANGED HANDS.

Boston Parties Secure the Finest Hotel Property in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Jan. 27.—The Lindell hotel, a six story structure of 300 rooms, one of the finest buildings of its character in the western country, located at the northwest corner of Washington avenue and Sixth street, where the premises cover an area of 182x228 feet, fronting also on Lucas avenue, was sold today for $500,000 to Chicago parties who have about effected a re-sale of the realty to Boston people for a good round advance. The grantor was Mrs Vincent Marmaduke, widow of Henry Ames.

WANTS INDEMNITY.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—John I. Riggins, of this city, brother of Charles W Riggin, the boatswain's mate of the cruiser Baltimore, whose brutal murder by the Chilians in the streets of Valparaiso was called to the attention of congress in President Harrison's message, consulted Attorney W. W. Ker yesterday with regard to the identity that will be expected from Chili for the taking of his relative's life. The result of the interview will be the early filing with the secretary of state of a claim for damages on behalf of the brother and sisters of deceased, Mrs Mary Zimmerman and Mrs Ella Mathews, both of this county. When Captain Ker, who was assistant attorney general of the United States under the late Benjamin Harris Brewster, during President Arthur's administration, and who is familiar with all the details involved in the legal procedure of such matters, was asked as to the course he would pursue, he said: "I suppose that in this instance the matter will be arranged as in all such cases. Chili will be compelled to pay a certain sum of money for the indemnification of the sufferers. These are special cases of damage, and there is no law governing them. The actual injury sustained is not the guide, but damages are awarded with a view of a punishment upon the aggressor to serve as a warning to others. In this way the parties interested receive not only the ordinary loss, but get what the law calls vindicative or explenary damages." Counsellor Ker has not made up his mind yet as to the exact amount to press for. After further consultation with his clients he will at once notify the state and naval departments of the claims that will be presented.

BIG WILL.

An Estate of Over $1,000,000 Disposed of by J. I. Case.

RACINE, Wis., Jan. 27.—In the county court here yesterday the last will of the late Jerome I. Case was admitted probate. According to the will Mr. Case left an estate valued at $1,100,000. Of this amount $1,000,000 was in personal property and $100,000 in real estate. After provisions are made for the funeral expenses, the will bequeaths to the widow the homestead on Main street, also $100,000 and also bank stock in several banks. To Chas. H. Lee he bequeaths in trust $80,000 for his children. To his sister, Mrs. Jane Wright, of Denver, Col., is left $5,000 in trust, and to Florence Hollbrooke, of Chicago, $2,000. All the rest of the property goes to the children and he expresses a desire that his son, Jackson I. Case, manage the interests in the J. I. Case thrashing machine works. Lydia Case, Jackson I. Case and H. M. Wallis are named as the executors.

HILL CRITICISED.

The World and Times Speak of the Senator in a Sarcastic Way.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Commenting on the selection by the democratic state committee of Albany, February 22d, as the place and date for the democratic state convention, the World says: "A delegation from New York, chosen after only twenty-four days notice, three months earlier than the convention in 1888 and four months in advance of that of 1884, can hardly command the respect at Chicago which would belong to a delegation chosen at the usual time, in the customary manner and after a full and free canvass of the democratic voters. Senator Hill will have a united delegation from New York to the national convention. Nevertheless, we think that Senator Hill, who seldom errs in matters political, has made a mistake."

The Times says. "The Hill managers undoubtedly congratulate themselves, and with reason, on their control of the party machinery. They have yet to learn that there is a wide difference between the power to nominate and the power to elect."

MUSGRAVE'S CASE.

An Important Law Point Decided by Judge Taylor.

TERRE HAUTE, Jan 27.—A jury was secured in the Musgrave life insurance swindle case yesterday. Judge Taylor decided against Musgrave on the plea in abatement filed for the prisoner. The question had never been decided in Indiana and much interest was felt in it in legal circles. Judge Taylor held that a man might be tried on another charge than that on which he had been extradited. The court declared that there was a difference between international extradition, where this rule is strictly laid down, and inter-state extradition on account of the comity and sovereignty that binds the states. Trout, the confederate, secured a separate trial and will not be tried till later.

A JOURNALIST GONE.

Senator Pierre Joignaux Dies of Old Age.

PARIS, Jan 27.—Senator Pierre Joignaux, the distinguished writer on agricultural topics, died today, aged seventy-seven years. While practically a student of agriculture Mr. Joignaux was active in politics on the republican side.

BACKS DOWN.

Emperor William's Cabinet Force Him to Drop the "Education Bill" Against His Wish.

BERLIN, Jan 27.—In connection with the cabinet crisis it is now said that the emperor on Saturday last made an unexpected call upon Count Zeidlitz, the minister of education, and that he then sent for Herr Miquel and Herr Bender. The whole party discussed the situation until midday, with the result that Herr Miquel consented to remain in office. The education bill had been discussed in committee. The emperor is said to be opposed to forcing the bill against the wishes of the nationalists and liberals. It will be recalled that in addition to the offer of the resignation of Her Miquel, Dr Von Boetticher, secretary of the interior, Herr Herfurth, minister of the interior, and Baron Von Berlepsic, minister of commerce, also threatened to resign if the bill is passed. There is no doubt that the emperor is loath to abandon this, one of his pet projects, yet he is said to be inclined to do so in view of the stand taken by his ministers.

THE BALTIMORE.

A Magnificent Oil Painting of the Man of War.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan 27.—The crew of the United States steamship Baltimore have sent overland from California to the Baltimore Sun, a magnificent oil painting of the Baltimore. The picture on a canvas five feet two inches long by three feet high shows the man of war leaving Naples for Chili, whither she was ordered before the Itata case. Vesuvius and the city of Naples are seen in the back ground and the picture is a portrait of the Bay of Naples as well as of the ship. It was painted in Italy while the Baltimore was there. The occasion of the presentation was a desire on the part of sailors to show their gratitude to Messrs. A. S. Abell & Co. for giving to their ship the fine Abell library, open to the men as well as to officers, and for the part the Sun took in the six days' entertainment of the men and their officers in May, 1890, when the cruiser [illegible] to Baltimore city, and the sailors [illegible] A letter [illegible]

By hard work on the part of the employes and the fire department, the round house and offices were saved. Nearly 200 men will be thrown out of work, untill the shops are rebuilt. The fire is supposed to have been started by the careless handling of a torch by a workman. The loss is estimated at $75,000, fully insured.

A TRIPPLE COLLISION.

Three Engines Smashed Up and the Engineer and Fireman Injured.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 27.—Three Burlington and Missouri engines were wrecked at the Union depot by a collision yesterday. It was caused by a misplaced switch. Fireman Dolan and Engineer Dryfoose received broken arms and the passengers were badly shaken up, but not seriously injured.

STONED THE SOLDIERS.

Strikers Make Things Lively in Spain.

MADRID, Jan. 27.—Dispatches from Bilbao say that there has been much rioting there between the strikers and the authorities. The soldiers were stoned and in defense fired upon the mob, killing several of them. Large reinforcements of troops are being sent to Bilbao.

DRIFTING SEAWARD.

Tugs With Italian Street Cleaners Carried Outward.

FIRE ISLAND, N. Y., Jan 27.—Rockaway station reports: "Can see no sign of the tugs or scows this morning which were reported drifting seaward with the Italian street cleaners aboard yesterday afternoon."

The Ashforth Case.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The court of queen's bench upon the application of the attorney general, Sir Richard Brewster, has decided upon Friday of next week as the day for the hearing of the appeal of the counsel for Jos. J. Ashforth, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in the extradition proceedings taken against the latter. Ashforth is wanted in Brooklyn for embezzlement of funds of the Royal Arcanum Building and Loan association of that city, of which institution he was treasurer.

New Paper at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan 27.—Dr. Morrison Mumford, for many years owner and editor of the Times, is about to embark in evening journalism. He has purchased the entire plant of the suppressed Sun, and on next Monday afternoon will issue the first number of the Post. He has, it is understood, secured a strong editorial force, and has interested in the paper men of extensive means.

BERLIN, Jan 27.—Major Yasusa Kukushima will leave this city shortly on horseback for Japan. The Major will first ride to St. Petersburg, from there to Moscow, Tomsk, Irkutsk, to Corea.

Stores Burned.

CENTRALIA, Ill., Jan. 27.—Wells & Garrett's hardware store and John Gloeris' harness store were destroyed by fire last night. Loss $25,000. The Guard printing office was badly damaged.

STRIKE ENDED.

The Chicago and Erie Striking Switchmen Return to Work at Huntington.

HUNTINGTON, Jan 27.—[Special.] The striking Chicago and Erie switchmen returned to work at 6 o'clock last evening. All trouble is now at an end and the yards are rapidly being cleared of the accumulation of freight cars.

The strike was not for an increase of wages, as reported, but was the result of a quarrel over the employment of some new men sent down from Chicago. All the old men were reinstated and the new men left last night for their home.

AN ALBANY BLAZE.

A Church Edifice and Five Residences Destroyed by Fire.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan 27.—Fire was discovered at 4:15 o'clock this morning in the French Church of Assumption, on Hamilton street, and in ten minutes the entire structure, which was a frame one, was wrapped in flames. The priest in charge, Father Lavigne, rushed in to save the sacrament, but he had to turn and flee for his life. In half an hour nothing but bare, blackened posts remained. The flames spread to the pastor's house on the west and to a four story brick and three two-story frame houses on the east. The entire fire department was called out and for at least five hours there was a hard fight for supremacy, the firemen gradually getting the better of the fire. The pastor's house was thoroughly wrecked, and the frame dwellings, occupied by nine colored families were entirely destroyed. The entire loss is about $30,000. The church was valued at $10,000 and was insured for $6,000. The thermometer registered four degrees below zero, and a high wind was blowing. The firemen suffered intensely with the cold some of them being literally encased with ice an inch thick and which had to be broken [illegible]

[illegible] leath Mounds [illegible] residence of George Myers three [illegible] from Kendallville. The house caught fire while the family of nine was asleep. Seven of the inmates escaped by jumping from the upper windows, all receiving more or less severe injuries. In the morning when the fire burn[illegible] itself out, the neighbors raked over the ashes to find the bodies. In each corner of the south side of the site of the house were found portions of the bones. That on the southwest corner was a skull and a portion of the right shoulder and arm. The top of the skull crumbled after being dragged from the fire, exposing the brain, which was literally cooked. The body found in the other corner bore still less likeness to anything human. It was evidently the stomach and right hip, but so shrunken, roasted, and altogether so gruesome a sight that the spectators turned from it sick at heart.

BURNED TO DEATH.

The Sad Fate of a Woman Eighty-Four Years Old.

DECATUR, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Barbara Hudson, aged eighty four years, living with her son one mile and a half from this place, was found burned to a crisp yesterday evening. Mr Hudson went out to do some work, and upon returning found his mother lying upon the floor, her clothes all burned off except that part she was lying upon. She was still alive when found, but died before medical aid could be secured. The only explanation that can be given by her son is that she was lighting her pipe and the fire was communicated to her clothing. She was a pioneer, had lived here for fifty years and had raised a large family.

TRACKS BLOCKADED.

A Collision of Freights Delays Traffic on the New York Central

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan 27.—Both tracks of the New York Central railroad were blocked this morning, near Hyde Park, by the collision of two freight trains, a number of cars being derailed. Passenger trains, including the north-bound fast mail were delayed about three hours. No one was injured.

COCKING MAIN.

Texas Whips Mississippi for $500 a Side.

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 27.—Last night a big cocking main terminated here after two days' fighting. It was Texas against Mississippi, thirteen fights, $50 a side on each, and $500 a side on the main. Texas won nine of the thirteen battles. The finest game birds in the south were pitted against each other.

Discussing a World's Fair Appropriation.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan 27.—The czarina is deeply grieved by the death of Archduke Constantine. The shock has checked the progress of her recovery from her recent illness and she is obliged to keep to her bed.

BUT LITTLE CRIME.

January Has Been an Extraordinarily Dull Month in the Courts of the City.

NEWSPAPER reporters, who are never so happy as when there are a number of sensational cases in the criminal courts to record, have been at their wit's ends during the last few weeks for something to write about in this department of local news, for an air of dullness has pervaded criminal circles, and sensations have been so few that readers sometimes complain, but this should not be charged up to the account of the newspaper reporters. The fact is, there is but little criminal news to get. Conversing upon this subject this morning Chief of Police Wilkinson said "This has been the dullest month in criminal circles since I have been on the police force, and that has been for fifteen years." Marshal Franke was met a few moments afterward and said "There have been fewer arrests made this month than during any month since I have been marshal of the city." The reporter stepped up stairs to the mayor's office and to our question Col Zollinger said "There was nothing in police court this morning."

COURT CULLINGS.

James Pauley has been appointed administrator of the estate of Wm Pauley, deceased.

John C Downs and Mary Randall, Wm A Hammond and Elfa L. Brown have been licensed to wed.

Justice France is hearing the case against Leslie Myers, who is charged with disturbing a religious meeting in Springfield township.

Justice Wilkinson has decided the case of Conrad Nun against the Nickel plate railroad, for killing a cow. The plaintiff was given a judgment of $30.

Frank Stuck was arrested for cruelty to animals. He is having his trial this afternoon in Justice Wilkinson's court.

Justice Wilkinson yesterday turned over $215 to S A D Whipple, assistant attorney general of Indiana, as fines collected.

Frank Kring, through his attorney, E. V. Emerick, brought proceedings for divorce against his wife, Ellie Kring. The charges are cruelty and neglect. [illegible] a dance artist in the concert [illegible] Charles Goodman's [illegible]

The emperor seemed to be much pleased and said a few gracious words to all present. At 10:30 this morning the imperial family attended religious services at the Chapel Royal of the castle. A largely attended reception in the white-hall followed, all the leading members of the diplomatic corps being present. In the mean time a detachment of artillery in the Lustgarten fired an imperial salute of 101 guns. At twelve thirty there was a grand military reception, all the most prominent officers of the army and navy being in attendance. The emperor also received the members of the government and was presented with congratulatory addresses from the mayors and municipalities of many of the great and small cities of the empire. The emperor, throughout these ceremonies, was beaming with good humor and was warmly greeted by the prominent personages who attended the different receptions.

DECISION RENDERED.

Judge Shepard Settles a Quarrel Between Church Members.

CHICAGO, Jan 27.—In the Evangelical church fight Judge Shepard in the circuit court this morning rendered a decision in favor of the Escher and Bowman faction as against the Dubbs faction, holding that the independent conference presided over by the former was a lawful one and that they committed no acts that tended toward taking away their rights. The decision involves church property valued at a million dollars.

A SERIOUS WRECK.

Ten Baltimore and Ohio Cars Derailed and Burned.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 27.—A long freight train on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad broke in two early this morning, while going down a grade in Cecil county, Md. The two sections collided and ten cars were wrecked. There were three oil tanks among those wrecked which took fire and set fire to the rest of the train. No one was injured.

Yellow Fever on a British Ship.

NEW YORK, Jan 27.—The British steamer Marca, from Santos, is detained in quarantine for fumigation, having lost her captain Thos. B. Metcalf, of Shields; Third Engineer John Anderson, Chief Mate Andrew Smith and Fireman Alex McDonald from yellow fever.

A Prospective Duel.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Jan 27.—Considerable excitement prevails in German and French circles in the northern part of the city over a prospective duel between two well known residents of that locality. Yesterday J. M. De Lutz sent to Geo C. Snyder the usual note demanding such satisfaction as only gentlemen can give and receive where honor is in question. The affair was referred to mutual friends to arrange details for the meeting. The trouble grows out of a dispute over a game of cards.

JOINED THE MAJORITY.

Daily Record of Those Who Have Passed to the Great Beyond.

Wednesday, January 20, 1892, at the residence of his mother near Hoagland, occurred the sudden death of James E. McKernan, of congestion of the lungs, aged thirty-one years one month and twenty-one days. Soon after dinner he lay down on the sofa to rest, while his sister went about her work in the kitchen. In the course of half an hour she entered the room to stir the fire, where she found her brother cold in the embrace of death. She and he were the only members of the family at home at the time of his death. He leaves a mother, five sisters and four brothers and a large circle of friends to mourn his death, a father, one brother and one sister having gone before.

Adopted.

Mr Morgan asked immediate consideration of a resolution calling for the state department correspondence with China regarding Mr Blair. It was important to learn what the United States intended to do when notified that a gentleman of such high reputation had been rejected by the government to which he was accredited. This became additionally important from its bearing on another case where the United States and another government had become much embroiled. Mr. Morgan's resolution, as modified, was adopted.

Mr. Hoar, from the committee on elections, called up the resolution declaring Horace A. Chilton entitled to the seat in the senate made vacant by the resignation of James Reagan. He explained that the committee had concluded that the governor's appointment of Mr Chilton was legal. After some debate the resolution was adopted and Mr. Chilton was confirmed in his seat.

PUBLIC INSTALLATION.

Howard Council Prepares an Entertaining and Instructive Program.

Howard council No. 246, of the Royal Arcanum, will install its officers for the ensuing year next Friday evening, at the hall, in the Bass block. The installation ceremony is a very beautiful one—one in which a great deal of interest is taken.

The following program has been arranged: Overture, orchestra; invocation, Rev. Jas. Stuart Ainslie; duet, Mrs C M Fisher, Wm Miles; welcoming address, regent; song, Miss Leo Long; installation of officers; song, Euphonia quartet; music, orchestra; address, Grand Regent Bradford; song, quartet; light refreshments, interspersed with music and toasts; Hon. A. Zollars toastmaster.

Editors Will Witness Executions.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan 27.—The assembly passed a bill allowing newspaper representatives to witness electrical executions.

The marriage of Miss Mary Randall and Dr Downs will take place this evening at the Randall mansion.

FAILED TO GET IT!

The bids for the new Laporte county court house, the plans for which were drawn by Architect Brent S. Tolan, of this city, were opened at Laporte yesterday. Several Fort Wayne contractors were among the bidders and William Geake, who was associated with J. W. Cotterell & Co., Cincinnati, came in second best but the plum went to W. L. Moses, a Chicago contractor. The bids were as follows: J. W. Cotterell, of Cincinnati, and Wm Geake, of Fort Wayne, $183,635; John Suelzer, Fort Wayne, $191,911.10; C. Boseker, Fort Wayne, $197,026.58; W. L. Moses, Chicago, $178,554; Wilson & Son, Valparaiso, $194,185; Lee, Coates, Dunlap & Co., $190,265.10; Lewman & Co., Jeffersonville, $203,341.08; George Jaap, Fort Wayne, $193,287; Longshore Bros., Valparaiso, $221,337. The contract was awarded to W. L. Moses. The bid was for the building complete except the plumbing and steam heating and the Indiana buff stone to be used. Should the commissioners see fit to decide on red stone, which they probably will, the cost will be increased $15,000 to $20,000. Architect Tolan will superintend the entire contract.

INSTITUTE AND CONVENTION.

The Allen County Sunday School Representatives Meet.

Yesterday afternoon there was held in the auditorium of the city Y. M. C. A. the first Allen county Sunday school convention in three years. Owing to unfavorable circumstances a meeting could not be advantageously called until now.

Rev. C. N. Pond, superintendent of the American Sunday School Union, took charge. The afternoon session lasted two hours, during which the following officers were elected. W. D. Page president, H. C. Schrader, secretary; W. E. Mossman, treasurer. It was decided to hold next April or May in this city the district convention consisting of representatives from the counties of Allen, Adams, Wells and Huntington. The county convention will be held here at the same time.

At the evening session bible readings and addresses took up most of the time. In addition to the officers elected at the afternoon session, Miss Annie Philley was chosen assistant secretary. The executive board now consists of Messrs. Page, Schrader, Rev. Ainslie, E. A. K. Hackett and Mrs. D. B. Wells.

A collection was taken up one half [illegible]

[illegible] at Captain Smith took [illegible] an assistant last fall. [illegible] he was a widower, and [illegible] Captain Smith to allow the little girl, his daughter, to live in his house while he was in the captain's service.

The long, gaunt, red-haired man had afterward gone to Cuba to enter upon a new employment. He asked Mrs Smith to take care of the child, and as he agreed to pay for her board and Mrs. Smith had, besides, formed an attachment for her, Ollie continued to live in the Smith household.

The words Mrs Smith had overheard were but the rambling exclamations of a dreamer, but Mrs Smith thought that they might perhaps have been the unbidden expressions of an overburdened heart, and in the morning Ollie was questioned. The child admitted that her mother was living, and gave the names of several relatives in Fall River, Mass.

As the result of correspondence the mother of the little child presented herself at Mr. Smith's house yesterday and little Ollie flew to her arms.

The reunion was pathetic. Mrs. Hackett said that her husband had deserted her and stolen the child from her and that she had hunted all through the east for her but without avail.

Worry and anxiety had finally mastered her and when the news that "Ollie" had been found came to her at last she was on a sick bed. Feeble and unable to endure the strain of travel as she was, love had lent strength to her feet, and she had hastened to Jersey City to claim her flaxen haired pet and take her to her home and bosom again.

Fireman Dies From Injuries.

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan 27.—Assistant Fire Marshal Ben McCarter, who was injured last night by the overturning of a hose reel, died at 8:30 this morning. Driver Nels Anderson is not expected to live through the day.

The program for the grand musical on the members course at the city department Y. M. C. A. for tomorrow will be an unusually fine one. Miss Higgins, who played so charmingly at the charity ball, will give several selections. The Misses Schrader will also please the audience with their delightful singing. The entire program is made up of the finest local talent.

Cold nights linger with us.

DIPHTHERIA is raging in many parts of the state.

THE republicans will decide tomorrow when and where their state convention will be held.

THE friends of Governor Boies, of Iowa, are preparing to boom him as a presidential candidate.

THERE should be a large attendance this evening at the circuit court rooms to hear Hon. P. S. O'Rourke speak on "Democracy."

IT is thought the date of holding the democratic state convention will be changed and made one week later than the time set, about April 21st.

THE Chilian war cloud seems to be slowly flitting away. It looks now as if the United States and Chili will agree to an arbitration of their differences.

EX-ATTORNEY GENERAL BRADFORD, of Kansas, has been tendered by the president the appointment of inspector of seals and fisheries with headquarters in Alaska. The duties of the office are principally to count the seals the authorized fur company takes from the waters that the government may charge up the royalty, but it pays the nice salary of $5,000 a year and perquisites.

THERE is to be a remarkable convention February 15 in the now famous little town of Dwight, Ill. On that day delegates representing the forty or fifty thousand graduates of the Keeley Bichloride of Gold institute and its various branches will assemble for the permanent organization of the Bichloride of Gold club of the world. A temporary organization has already been effected from the bichloride of gold clubs that are now scattered about the country.

REV. D. P. BAKER, chaplain of the prison north, is also pastor of the Michigan City Congregational church. Recently the prison directory made some radical changes in hours of prison worship, and also intimated that more time must be devoted to the moral and intellectual welfare of the convicts individually. It is possible that this will be followed by Mr. Breed's resignation. Rev. Mr. Gibbons, of Dowagiac, but formerly of Denver, Colo., is an applicant for the position.

CONGRESSMAN MCCLELLAN has introduced a bill repealing section 3701 of the revised statutes of the United States which provides that all stocks, bonds, treasury notes and other obligations of the United States shall be exempt from taxation by state or municipal authority. Mr. McClellan also introduced a bill providing that if any widow who now receives a pension shall remarry and her subsequent marriage shall be terminated by the death of her husband she shall be entitled to a restoration of her pension dating from the time of her husband's death.

SOMETHING ABOUT CHILI.

Facts Concerning the Country That Our Nation Could Easily Whip.

Chili is situated on the Pacific ocean, extending about 2,000 miles down the coast from latitude twenty four south. It is only from forty to 200 miles wide and contains an area about six times that of the state of Ohio. It is bounded on the north by Peru, on the east by the Argentine Republic and on the south by the Antartic ocean. From its situation Chili has a great variety of climate from the tropical heat of Atacama to the perpetual snow of Cape Horn. Just at present the people of Santiago and Valparaiso are enjoying the delights of midsummer, Chili being on the other side of the equator from us.

The little republic is divided into twenty-three provinces and one territory, subdivided into seventy five provinces. The departments and territory are subdivided into 855 sub-delegations and 3,068 districts. The area covers 293,926 square miles. The last census (taken a couple of years ago) was 2,665,-926. There are, besides, about 50,000 native Indians, and about 29,889 who were not registered, making the total population now about 3,000,000. The United States of North America has a population of 62,622,250. The state of Ohio contains 3,672,316 persons, a greater population than all Chili.

Chili is governed very much as the United States is. The national congress is composed of two houses—a senate elected by the provinces for six years, and a chamber of deputies elected by the departments. The Roman Catholic is the prevailing religion, but according to the constitution all religions are respected and protected. No country except Peru has as great a variety of blood. There are the native Indians, as pure blooded as when Columbus landed at Hispaniola, negroes, quadroons and octoroons, pure-blooded Castilians, who were born and educated in Spain, Chinamen, Germans, English, and Italians. There are persons who have Indian, negro, Spanish and Mongolian blood commingled in their veins, and it is no wonder the populace is of so brutal a nature.

Like most of the South American countries, Chili maintains a large standing army in proportion to its population. There were about 50,000 citizens enrolled in the national guard and Chili's army now numbers about 60,000 men. Her navy consists of three ironclads, one deck-protected cruiser, ten first class and two second class torpedo boats, two corvettes, three rams, two dispatch boats, two transports, four gunboats and four sailing vessels. The ironclads are the Almirante Cochrane, the Blanco Encalada and the Huascar. The protected cruiser Esmeralda is her crack fighter, and has had many a victory.

The following is a brief statement of the difficulty that led to [illegible] difference between [illegible]

The sailors attempted to retire, but were pursued by a mob. A body of soldiers and police were soon upon the scene, but instead of defending the assailed the sailors were amazed to find that they reinforced the mob and fired their carbines at the pursued and retreating sailors. Bayonet thrusts followed the bullets, one or two were killed, several severely wounded, and others were lassoed and dragged to prison. The truth as to these occurrences was established by the testimony of the sailors at the time and subsequently, and by the officers.

RATHER BRIEF.

Semi-monthly Session of the Common Council—The Proceedings.

Twelve members were present at the regular meeting of the common council last evening and these twelve had a short session of it, the business being easily disposed of in one hour's time.

The various reports were read. It was recommended by the committee of finance that the request of the engineer be granted and he be allowed one additional assistant to assist him in keeping up the transfer of the lots and lands, getting up a new sewer map and all other work that may be necessary and pertaining to said office, the salary of said assistant to be fixed at $75 per month. This would facilitate the drawing of a new sewer map as well as other matters in this important department of the city. The committee on streets recommended that the matter of paving East Wayne street from the east line of Hanna street to the west line of Hanover street, be taken up and the engineer be instructed to readvertise for bids. It was the opinion of the committee that a new road machine and street sweeper should be provided, as the machinery now at hand is not sufficient to properly do the work.

The committee on parks reported that they have just completed the third greenhouse in the northside park. The increase in the number of plants necessitated more room, and with their own labor built the said house as large as either of the other two at a labor cost of only $8.88, which, if done by contract would have cost at least $75. Plumbing for heating purposes must now be put in. The employes in the park can assist in doing the work without extra pay. The cost of said plumbing will not exceed $25, yet the committee is satisfied that the work can be done much cheaper if they are allowed by the council to do it themselves without advertising for bids. The privilege was granted.

F. H. Telley and twenty-eight others asked that an electric light be placed at the corner of Nelson and Washington streets. Referred to committee on street lights.

Margaret A. Tower and nineteen others remonstrated against the proposed paving of Lafayette street between Jefferson and Columbia streets. Referred to committee on street.

The following bills were allowed:

Street commissioner's pay roll, $[illegible]; Charles J. Sosenheimer, money advanced, $117.15; A. Hattersley & Sons, $28.08; E. A. K. Hackett, $14.50; Peters Box and Lumber company, $11.28; Louis Schwartz, $5.60; J. C. Zollinger, $1.75; M. M. Thompson, $1.50; Joseph Storm, $27.75; Kitian Baker, $12.92; Louis Dether & Bro., $10.15; Louis Cornelle, $7.00; Ella Thomas, $4.15; George W. Stam, $2.85; George Rubbman, $2.50; Ely & Dittoe, $1.55; Keller & Braun, $3.00; park pay roll, $52.75; L. Dether & Bro., $2.62; J. W. Ross, $17.11; Andrew Bennett, $8.87; J. E. Klinger, $2.75; W. H. Shambaugh, $19.50; John S. Weber, $1.75.

The following bills were referred to the proper committees: Morgan & Beach, $4.50; Wilding & Son, $7; the Journal company, $25.16; George H. Viberg, sheriff, $108.75.

THE BORDER TROUBLE.

Catarino Garza, the Mexican Revolutionist.

Catarino Garza is a native of Mexico, but was reared at Brownsville, Tex., where he received a fair education. He attended the university of Mexico, and upon his graduation entered the army. An act of insubordination caused him to fly to the Texas side of the Rio Grande. At Palo Pinto he married the daughter of a wealthy Mexican-Spaniard and started the paper in which he began his assault upon the Mexican government. At Rio Grande City he shot a man named Sebree, and, it is said, killed two custom inspectors. He himself was seriously wounded in the affray. After his recovery he went to Laredo, Tex., and soon became involved in a quarrel over General Martinez, who was afterward assassinated. Garza next appeared at Duval, Tex., where he started another paper assailing the Mexican government. He turned up next at the head of his present expedi[illegible]

Chicago Ideals at the Masonic Temple Tonight.

No musical organization of recent years has won such hearty and deserved recognition from the public as has been accorded the Chicago Ideals, which appears at the Temple tonight and those who attend will be given a rare evening's entertainment. To give one a slight idea of their ability, we clip the following from a few well known journals.

Burlington Free Press: Mr. G. H. Slocum as a violinist has no superiors and few, if any, equals, and was encored again, while Mrs. Slocum is perfect as pianist, and both fairly captured the hearts of our people. Mr. J. C. Salmon is the finest cornetist that ever played in our city, which is saying worlds of him.

Detroit Journal: Miss Elizabeth Garrison, who made her debut with Mrs. Noble's graduates at the Detroit opera house last night, is the daughter of City Assessor C. M. Garrison. She is very handsome, has a fine stage presence, a splendid voice, and abandons the ancient methods of the ordinary elocutionist. Nature seems to have fitted Miss Garrison for the professional stage.

In speaking of the band concert by the Iowa state band, the Ottumwa Democrat says: "The audience marveled at the wonderful technique of the cornet soloist, Mr. John Salmon."

Duluth Press: Miss Claudia McPheeters has a full soprano voice, sweet and sympathetic, resembling the great singer, Mme. Gerster. She gives evidence of careful training, in every way. The cadences and arpeggios, occurring in the difficult selections she gave, were well rendered with a degree of skill and artistic finish seldom reached by so young an artist.

"I had rather be a kitten and cry mew" than groan all night and scold all day with neuralgia, when one little bottle of Salvation Oil would make me gentle and well. Pussy, wouldn't you.

Coughs, hoarseness, asthma or any irritation of the throat or bronchial tubes will be relieved by taking Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. It has cured thousands. Recommend it to your friend and neighbor.

It has been proposed to put jinrikshas, the Japanese baby chairs, on wheels, drawn by men, on the streets of London.

La Grippe.

The tendency of this disease toward pneumonia is what makes it dangerous. La Grippe requires precisely the same treatment as a severe cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of severe colds. It promptly and effectually counteracts the tendency of the disease to result in pneumonia, provided that proper care be taken to avoid exposure when recovering from the attack. Careful inquiry among the many thousands who have used this remedy during the epidemics of the past two years has failed to discover a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia. EATING THE MESCAL.

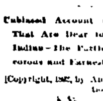
THE STRANGE CEREMONY WITNESSED BY AN ETHNOLOGIST.

Unbiased Account of Religious Rites That Are Dear to the Hearts of the Indian—The Participants Solemn, Decorous and Earnest.

[Copyright, 1892, by American Press Association.]



IN a world of cares and unsatisfied longings it is natural that the soul should sometimes court oblivion and turn wearily from the realities of life to seek short surcease of sorrow in the illusive glories and dreamy imaginings of intoxication. In every part of the world man finds some means to satisfy this universal craving, and as the nervous European resorts to exhilarating or maddening liquors, so the contemplative Mongolian has his opium, the fiery Arab his hashish and the nomad savage of the southwest his mescal. While opium and hashish are used by their votaries simply as intoxicants the mescal eating ceremony is a solemn religious rite, seldom observed by a white man, but which it has been the writer's fortune to witness.

Mescal is the name given to several species of cactus growing in the arid regions of northern Mexico, all of which possess intoxicating or narcotic properties. The particular variety eaten by the southwestern tribes is the disk or torus of a species of Mamillaria, looking, when dried, very much like the flattened and shriveled root of the Indian turnip, with a tuft of white cottony down in the center. It has a bitter taste and from four to twelve are necessary to produce the effect, which is not followed by any injurious reaction whatever. In fact almost every species of cactus has a food or medicinal value, and the mescal is reverenced by these tribes not only as a sacred narcotic but as a health bringing panacea for all bodily ills.

Having been studying the ghost dance all winter among these tribes, we had become pretty well acquainted, when one afternoon a young Kiowa came to tell me in a guarded manner that his people intended to eat mescal that night at a camp about ten miles up the Ouachita and would probably be willing to have me present. Accordingly I started about dark, in company with a Comanche and a Mexican who had been captured when a child and brought up by the Kiowas.

At last we reached the camp in a strip of timber close by the river. The white tepees were scattered about among the trees, with the firelight shining out so brightly through the thin canvas that we could count the shadows of the inmates as they sat around the fire within. Going up to a tepee from which proceeded familiar voices my Mexican lifted the door flap and, putting his head inside, explained that his friend who had come so far to visit them was outside and desired to witness the ceremony. After some parleying he told [illegible] sitting [illegible] stalks strewn in a circle [illegible] sides. There were about [illegible] Kiowas, Comanches, Apaches, the Mexican and myself. The door faced the east, the ground was cleanly swept and in the center was a firehole, with a crescent shaped mound of earth half encircling it on the farther side and sloping down to the floor at each end. At the right of the doorway sat the master of ceremonies, with a pile of firewood at his side. Opposite him, beyond the crescent mound, sat a young man whose duty it was to distribute the mescal. All sat silently looking intently into the fire as we took our places in the circle.

It was about 10 o'clock when the old man placed a fresh pile of wood on the fire, carefully piling up the sticks in cob-house fashion, with the ends pointing toward the doorway, and fanning it into a blaze with a beaded eagle feather used only in this ceremony. The feather was also brought into frequent requisition to fan away any particles of ashes which chanced to fall upon the mound. Stretching out his hands toward the fire he then delivered an earnest address, which my interpreter afterward explained was an exhortation to the participants to enter into the ceremony with the proper religious spirit, and a special word to me to the effect that they had permitted me to be present that I might note everything, so that on my return I could tell the government and the white men that it was all good and not bad, and that it was the religion of the Indians in which they believed, and which was as dear to them as ours is to us.

STRETCHED HIS HANDS TOWARD THE FIRE.

The other now produced a package of mescals and selecting the largest one deposited it carefully upon the top of the mound upon a bed of fragrant [illegible] arranged in the form of a cross. He then [illegible] mescals around the circle giving four to each man.

Each participant now took a mescal in his hand and passing it with a sweeping motion toward the sacred mescal on the mound and on through the blaze of the fire brought it up to his lips. This was repeated four times and at the fourth time he seized the mescal between his teeth and chewed it with a loud crunching noise.

After chewing it awhile he took it in his hand and held it up, looking now like a brown nutmeg, and then throwing back his head swallowed it at a gulp, rubbing his chest and the back of his neck after the operation, presumably to facilitate the descent of the pellet. The remaining three were swallowed in the same way at intervals of perhaps half an hour. This is generally repeated three times in the course of the ceremony, making twelve mescals to each man.

As soon as the first mescals had been eaten the man sitting next the old fire tender took the drum, while his nearest companion took in one hand a rattle and in the other an eagle tail fan and a curiously ornamented stick. This stick was used as a hand rest, one end being set upon the ground, while the fan was for the purpose of screening the eyes from the blaze of the fire in front. The rattle, fan and stick were decorated with various symbolic figures and colors. In its main features the ceremony is a form of elemental worship, the prayers being addressed to the mescal, the fire, the rain, the earth, the sun and the morning star.

The one now began to shake the rattle and started a plaintive mescal chant, while the other kept up an accompaniment with the drum. The chants are hymns to the mescal and the various powers of nature. Like most Indian songs, they are in the minor key. Each couple continued the song for perhaps fifteen minutes and then passed the instruments on to the next two, who started another song, and thus it slowly went around the circle. As the night dragged along the tired ear became almost insensible to the low monotone of the songs and the incessant din of the drum, the fire took on strange shapes as it blazed up and again died down, throwing weird shadows over the dark forms around the circle, until at last the whole thing seemed unreal and far away as the memory of a dream.

SEEKING AID FOR HIS CHILD.

From time to time the old man placed fresh wood upon the fire and carefully piled up the ashes so as to form a white crescent just within the crescent mound of earth. The mescal was handed around and eaten at intervals until daylight began to shine in through the canvas and we could hear the Indians stirring about the camp outside.

Now the door flap was suddenly lifted and a man stepped in, carrying in his arms an infant. The child was sick almost to death and as a last hope he had brought it to the sacred lodge to be prayed for by the priests of the mescal. There was something deeply affecting in the pathetic earnestness of the father as he watched the priests praying over his child, which seemed in a stupor and made no sound. The ceremony completed, he left as silently as he entered.

The sun mounted higher and higher, and the fire burned low until at last, when nearly noon, the singers took up the raven song, which is always the final one. While this was being sung the door flap was again raised and some women on the outside handed in pans of hashed meat, parched corn soaked in water, heavy cakes of bread and coffee. As soon as the song ended these were passed around the circle, each man taking what he wanted. Before eating each one threw a small piece of meat into the fire as an offering. The fire received also a piece of bread from each man, while one or two grains of corn were placed upon the mound and a few drops of coffee poured over it as a libation.

[illegible] final prayer and another request from the old man that I should go back and tell the whites that the Indians had a religion of their own which they loved, the ceremony ended. From sitting full fourteen hours in such a cramped position, with the constant din of the songs and instruments and the glare of the fire in my eyes, I was pretty well used up and for awhile hardly able to move, but the mescal eaters appeared to be as fresh as when they began. Before we had made ready our horses to depart the sacred lodge had been taken down and only the mound of earth and the ashes remained to show where it had been.

Baby's Fearful Suffering from Skin Disease Covering Entire Body Cured by Cuticura.

My baby was taken very sick when he was three months old, and in a few days began breaking out. We employed both of the home doctors, and they could do nothing for him. Then we sent for the best doctor in Eaton Rapids, Mich., and he doctored him for two weeks, and he got worse all the time, and then I took him to Jackson, to a doctor who treated such cases especially to skin diseases, and then he got worse than ever. Then I told my husband we had better try the CUTICURA REMEDIES any way; did not have any idea they would do any good, but in less than two months from the time we began giving them to him he was entirely well, and not a spot on him. His hair began growing right off, and we thought he would always be bald headed. There was not a spot on his whole body, face, and head, only his nose and eyes, but what was as raw as beef steak. Poor little thing, he could do nothing but scream, and so weak he could raise neither hand nor head.

RAILWAY AFFAIRS.

Startling Figures Regarding Railway Casualties—Accidents and Incidents of Daily Life.

There has just been issued from the office of the interstate commerce commission an exhaustive report of the railway accidents for the last fiscal year, which shows that accidents among trainmen are on the increase. The report says: "The total number of railway employes is 749,301, from which it appears that one death occurs among employes for every 306 employed, and one injury occurs for every thirty-three men employed. Corresponding figures for the previous year show one killed for every 357 men employed, and one injured for every thirty-five men employed, thus indicating a higher rate of casualties for the present year than for the year covered by the last report.

"By far the largest number of casualties occur to men engaged in handling trains, thus, while trainmen represent but 20 per cent. of the total number of employes, the casualties sustained by them represent 58 per cent. of the total casualties. A passenger riding continuously on a train might expect immunity from death by railway accident for 158 years, but an engineer, a brakeman or a conductor, under the same conditions, must expect a fatal accident at the expiration of thirty-five years. This estimate assumes that the passenger travels thirty miles an hour and that trainmen work on an average eight hours per day. The safety of travel for the passengers when compared with the danger to trainmen is somewhat remarkable."

MINOR MENTION.

C. Hegerfield, the Pittsburg blacksmith, is on the sick list.

The Choctaw railroad is now completed within two miles of Oklahoma City.

Mr. Kayser, of the Pittsburg freight office, is the happy father of a bouncing boy baby.

The machinists at the Bass works are working thirteen hours per day at present.

Frank Swerigen, of the [illegible] in Plymouth today in the inter[illegible] the company.

Manager R. T. McDonald, of [illegible] Electric Light company, went to [illegible]cago last evening.

Tom Sinclair, clerk in the east [illegible] shop office, was off duty yesterday on account of sickness.

M. G. Stack, brakeman on the Nickel Plate, went to Chicago last night to visit friends a few days.

Engineers Joseph Miller, E. Van Tilburg and Joseph Studer, of the Nickel Plate, are recent victims to the grip.

Conductor J. E. Brown, of the Nickel Plate, is laid up with a broken rib, the result of a fall down a flight of stairs.

Charlie Rosenberger and Fred Daseler have resigned at the Wabash boiler shop and taken positions in the Pittsburg.

Monday sixty-four car loads of grain were received at Indianapolis, the largest number for any previous day in the history of the city.

The Lake Erie and Western earned in the third week of January $64,070.84; increase over the corresponding week of 1891, $689.71.

John Lott, formerly with the Electric Light company in this city, is now the superintendent of the People's electric light plant at Oswego, N. Y.

The Eureka division of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, which has its headquarters in Indianapolis, is the largest in the country, having 192 members.

Wabash trainmen get splendid pay for their service. To illustrate, one engineer drew $249 out of the pay car last month. There were several others who drew $230.

It is claimed that the membership of the Brotherhood of Locomotive engineers has been increased during the past year over 3,000, mainly through the promotion of firemen.

The switchmen employed by the Chicago and Erie company at Huntington, went on a strike for higher wages yesterday. They demand $2.50 to $3.00 per day, an increase of from 25 to 50 cents.

The Pittsburg limited, No. 5 came in two and a half hours late this morning, hauled by two engines.

William Deitrick has taken a position as fireman on the Wabash road. He was a street car driver for several years.

Frank Smith, brakeman on the Nickel Plate, was knocked off a train by an overhead bridge near Cleveland, Ohio.

H. S. Johnson has returned from a visit to his parents at Leipsic, Ohio. He is a telegrapher employed at the Nickel Plate.

Ed Challenger, clerk in the Pittsburg shop, is at New Haven today, where his father-in-law is lying very ill and is not expected to recover.

Pittsburg engine No. 156 is again in the shops for repairs, the third time within a month. Engines 215 and 106 were turned out today.

General Superintendent Canniff and Assistant General Superintendent Blodget, of the Lake Shore, were in the city yesterday, the guests of the general officers.

James Ludington is in a bad way physically. He suffers with kidney disease. Michael Ehrmann, also a machinist in the Pittsburg shops, is sick and off duty.

The little daughter of William McKinnie, the Pittsburg line man, is very ill with bronchitis. She is reported some better this morning and the parents feel greatly encouraged.

G. T. Jarvis, assistant general superintendent, and Charles F. Daly, general passenger agent, of the Lake Erie and Western, were the guests of R. G. Thompson, of the Wabash, yesterday.

Conductor J. M. Trimble, of the Pittsburg, resumed his run today, after a severe sickness. Mrs. Trimble, who is still ill, is much improved, and will soon be able to attend to her household duties.

G. [illegible] H. Harrison, foreman of the [illegible] culating among old friends. He [illegible] member of the City band when [illegible] lived in this city and the boys were sorry when he left them.

Yesterday was the seventieth anniversary of the birth of James Hewes, the foreman of the Pittsburg boiler shop. The pleasures of the day were considerably marred by a severe attack of rheumatism, with which the genial uncle Jimmy is afflicted.

The total of all the Pennsylvania lines shows a mileage of 7,845.79 miles of railway lines, 13,676.62 miles of railway track, and 324 miles of canals and ferries, an increase during the year of 102.11 miles of railway and 374.64 miles of track of all kinds.

Pittsburg sick list: Engineers T. Titus, J. Stewart, T. Dyer, J. Meisner, J. Shinefelt and J. B. Lease, and Fireman A. H. Hively. Those who reported are: Engineers [illegible] Newell, J. McMullen, B. Camp[illegible] and Firemen P. L. Royel, C. Wel[illegible] and J. Wilson.

Vice President [illegible], of the Pennsylvania, says that the company did not commence to double track its line between Pittsburg and Chicago simply to handle the world's fair business. He says the road will in time have to be doubled tracked whether the world's fair is held or not.

Engineer Philip Taus, who left last evening in charge of engine No. 641, met with an accident at Leesville, a small station near Crestline, Ohio, which will lay him up for some time. From the meagre reports which are at hand it seems that he jumped from his engine and slipped on the icy track, fracturing the bones of his hand and one finger. He will return to the city this afternoon.

James Hislop, of the Pittsburg planing mills, and his estimable wife were married ten years ago yesterday. When Mr. Hislop returned from the shop in the evening he found assembled at his home a number of his relatives and friends from the country, who came to assist in celebrating the tin wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Hislop were taken by surprise but enjoyed the situation as much as did their guests. A splendid supper was served soon after which the guests took their departure.

The last number of London Engineering makes a statement of remarkable rapidity in constructing a locomotive in the Stratford works, England. The engine, it states, was built from the driving of the first pin and rivet to the application of the last coat of varnish in less than ten hours. It was a standard freight locomotive of the six-coupled type. One hundred and thirty-seven men were employed in the work. The works which held the record until this remarkable feat was the erection, in June, 1888 at the Altoona works of the Pennsylvania company, of a freight locomotive of the four coupled type in sixteen hours and thirty minutes. It should have been stated in London Engineering that the engine built at the Pennsylvania shops weighed fifty seven tons, while the one it speaks of weighed but thirty-seven tons.

DIDN'T BLAME HIM.

Hiram's Wife Sanctions His Departure for More Congenial Climes.

About seven miles from the Arkansas river we met a man on the highway with a gun on his shoulder. He looked as if he had been having a ten round go with breakbone fever, and that after he had been knocked out somebody had run his suit of clothes through a cornsheller. He stopped and we stopped, and he asked:

"Goin down as fur as Clark's Bend?"

"Yes."

"Do me a fav—"

"Yes."

"Jest after you cross Goose creek you'll see a shacklety cabin on the left. Thar'll be an ole woman sitting on a log dipping or smoking a pipe."

"Yes."

[illegible]al, that's my place and fam'ly, or up to an hour ago. I want ye to stop [illegible] tell the old woman that I've quit. My [illegible] ame's Hiram, and if she doubts you, which she won't, you kin describe me."

"Do you mean you have left home?"

"Sartin. I've got clean sickened out and I'm headed fur a healthier climate. Might jist stop and tell the old woman, so she won't think I've got mired or drownded."

"But didn't you tell her you were going?"

"No. I was out shootin squirrels, and made up my mind all of a sudden. It's right on your road and won't stop you more'n a minnit. Goodby."

We found the place without difficulty. There was the shacklety cabin, and there sat the old woman calmly smoking a clay pipe with a stem only two inches long. Scattered around among the stumps were half a dozen children, each one seemingly more dirty and ragged than the other. I was deputized to break the news to the woman.

"Howdy, stranger!" she saluted as I approached.

"Madam, have you got a husband named Hiram?" I asked.

"I reckon."

"Tall, sickly looking man, with ragged clothes on?"

"That's Hi."

"Well, we met him up the road about three miles, and he asked us to stop and tell you he'd quit."

"Dun left us?"

"Yes."

"Gwine off by hisself?"

"Yes."

"And he won't cum back no mo'?"

"That's the way I understood him."

She looked around at the half cleared "patch" of ground grown up to weeds, at the old cabin and the ragged children, and then she removed the pipe and blew a cloud of smoke into the air and replied:

"Wall, hang me if I blame him one least bit! I've been wonderin why he didn't go fur the last fifteen years!"

And as we drove away she sat there smoking and trotting her foot, evidently as calm and content as any woman in the state.—Detroit Free Press.

NEW ENGLAND'S PROPHET.

Icemen Depend on Him to Foretell the Weather for the Winter.

On the slope of Beavertown mountain, among the Connecticut hills, dwells a middle-aged man with a thoughtful, serious face who is the chief meteorological seer in New England. He is Weather Prophet Beebe. He is by no means without honor in his own country and New York state, and even in Maine, what he says about the forthcoming weather is respected with absolute faith. Though he is a plain countryman with only a common school education his daily mail at this time of year is as various as that of a popular congressman. All the icemen along the Hudson river and in all the eastern states consult him annually about the weather and the prospect of an ice crop. Since it is impracticable for Mr. Beebe to reply to all his correspondents with a personal letter he publishes his predictions in the press. He recently issued a long range with a prophecy for the next three months.

"The rest of the winter," says he, "will be broken or open." Hence he strongly advises all the icemen of New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut not to delay harvesting their crops, even if the ice is not more than six or eight inches thick. "Just as soon as the ice will answer at all," he says, "crowd on your men and cut it as quickly as possible." The spring, the prophet says, will be "on time," and though there will be plenty of snow and rain yet, the winter is bound to be a light one.

Mr. Beebe achieved great fame by predicting the great March blizzard of 1888, and since then the Hudson river famine, in fact his weather prophecies for New England and New York have been uniformly accurate in the last two years. The method he uses in his weather forecasts he has not disclosed.

We never operate where a cure can possibly be effected otherwise, but when necessary we claim to have no superiors. Our treatment is painless and the effects are immediate. We come fully prepared for examination and operations. We refer you to some of the most remarkable cases of restoring sight ever made in the world.

Fissure, Fistula or Ulcers cured by our electrical treatment.

Stricture of the Urethra, one or two treatments by electricity; no pain or soreness. Hypertrophic catarrh of the nose.

Polypus tumors of the nose, ear or rectum removed at one treatment.

Irritation of bladder and kidneys, one treatment. [illegible] female diseases, such as falling of [illegible] displacements, forward or backward [illegible] permanent cures.

[illegible] a great many women [illegible] whites or leucorrhea or [illegible] which can be relieved and cured [illegible].

Ladies [illegible] superfluous hair on the face we remove them permanently by our treatment. Blotches, moles, etc., likewise cancers, tumors, warts, cured by one treatment.

Varicocele, Hydrocele cured. Rupture cured. Young men suffering from errors should call. One or two treatments will restore them.

Deafness.—There are many cases that can be easily restored. Deformities, club feet, curvature of spine, all properly treated.

Lung Trouble. Many cases are curable that have not gotten too far. Will say to physicians of Fort Wayne and county, if you have a patient or relative you wish examined, bring them in. I have no secrets in my practice and will take pleasure in explaining every mode of treatment necessary. Will show them the improvements in advanced surgery and medicine. Patients coming from a long distance and staying night should call as soon as arrived, and many can go home well and never have to come back again.

Dr. Rea will undertake no incurable case and he will tell you what chances, if any, to be cured.

Remember the date. Send this to your sick neighbor or distant relative. Do not let it be said of you, like the old adage that "Man's inhumanity to man has made millions suffer and mourn."

Each patient can see the doctor privately. [illegible] as early as possible, as his room will be [illegible]

Last evening Joe Sunderland, the popular cashier of the Wabash freight office, was ushered through the mysteries of a side degree by members of Maumee lodge No 50 A O. U. W. Joe was in the hands of his friends and they had lots of fun with him. One humorous incident of the ordeal was when three maidens were ranged before the vision of Candidate Joe, his one choice of whom was to bestow upon him a kiss. A bandage was placed over his eyes and soon a clamorous smack, such as would make a marrying 'squire green with envy, made the very pictures rattle on the walls When the bandage was removed Joe was chagrined to find that the maidens had disappeared and one ugly looking man, alone stood over him as though ready to "give him another one" Such was one of the numerous funny features of Joe Sunderland's initiation and the boys are today extending sympathy to him in large chunks.

SHOULD CHANGE THE DATE

To the Editor of the SENTINEL:

The fact that the democratic state convention has been set for April 14 is certainly unfortunate, and should have the serious consideration of the state central committee to such an extent as to change the date, that it may not come so close to a day that ought to command and certainly does command, the respect not only of the Catholic and Lutheran churches, but even of citizens generally even politicians. When Wall street will close its busy marts out of respect for Good Friday, when commerce and banks close their doors and the board of trade mid its busy whirl of excitement, and its fever heat for speculation, when these so cheerfully yield in respect to a day for which reverence should be shown, even to a greater degree than is sometimes done, the state central committee should lose no time to correct their oversight and change the date of the convention We take it that democratic politicians are supposed to be, generally speaking, if not zealous church members at least pretty close to the deacons of the church in their respect for religion

I mentioned two great religious denominations by name because some of the newspapers have given as a special reason that the date should be changed on their account

I say, Mr. Editor, the date ought to be changed on general principles, out of respect for Christianity and as a measure of regard for the people of the great commonwealth of Indiana.

Yours,
THE COMMON WEAL.

A DANGEROUS CROSSWALK.

The Attention of the Council is Called to One.

To the Editor of THE SENTINEL.

I call the attention of the city council to a dangerous crosswalk on the east side of Clinton street at the alley between Jefferson and Lewis streets

The grade of the pavement recently laid at this place slopes so abruptly that it is indeed dangerous for passerbyes to attempt to cross it. There is no level place across this paving, so that even in dry weather it is not a safe crossing for footmen At present, whilst covered with ice, it is a trap that may cost the city a law suit and its consequences if not promptly attended to. CAUTION.

OPPOSED TO WAR.
